Introduction

If you love adventure, you'll love this wonderful travel through time up until about 3 thousand years ago as Scythians venture out to re-civilized Western Europe, and the United Kingdom. One heroine is named Scotas, but we find 3 of them and they are all Egyptian. It's not a simple history. We must travel back in time to before Adam and Eve. We must encounter three Scotas from Egypt and how they tied into Moses' exodus. We'll find out about a 4th son of Noah and how he escaped the flood. We'll find ancient Fomorians with unusual capabilities. The Scythians become very important, so we have to follow them and check out their cruelty and ancestry. We'll go through the horrible losses at the end of the Pleistocene Era, Noah's flood, and the Tower of Babel War. We'll find out the strange beginnings of Egypt and the Phoenicians and how they relate to the Aryan invasion of India. Mostly I think you will have some of your questions answered. Some of it is funny, some is mysterious, and some is down right scary. Luckily, even before written histories, there were dedicated monk-like historians that would recite genealogic details over and over for all to hear. Clans would sit around and listen to those histories like you and I watch TV. This dedication and the historians that were collected have been pieced together to build a n very unusual and interesting vision of the past. Those like the Greek writer Herodotus, the Babylonian writer Berossus, the Jewish historian Josephus, and many, many others help us see in the past. While the book is focused on the civilization of Ireland and Scotland as I trace the mysteries of the three Scotas, other details must be brought out to complete the picture and answer some of the most unusual anomalies in our development.

Who were the 3 Egyptian Scotas and how are they significant?

Who Were the Scythians?

Who was Noah's 4th son Bith and how does he fit into Ireland's civilization?

Who were the Olympians that were called gods?

Why did Egyptians paint themselves as red people? The front cover shows the image of one of the sisters of one of the Scotas. Like almost all the Theban Egyptians, they were depicted as red people.

Who were the Aryans and how are they associated with the Egyptians?

What happened to quick-freeze the Mammoths in Siberia?

Where did the First post flood king of Egypt come from? We know his name is Thoth, but is there more?

Who were the Fomorian that met settlers in Ireland?

How are the Scythians related to the people of UK?

What was the truth behind the Tower of Babel?

Why are they finding dinosaur remains that are not fossilized?

When Was Venus Destroyed?

On and on I could go, but you'll need to read the book to find the answers if you don't already know. With this many anomalies, I would think you are believing the whole story is suspect, but many, many historians have pieced together some pretty compelling evidence of the marvelous individuals represented in this work and how important the Scythians and Scotas were to the millions who call Ireland and Scotland their homelands. With that; let's get started.

Back At the Beginning

In order to understand what you need to know about Scots, Ireland and the Scythians we must start a long, long, time ago. Luckily, there were a great many historians collecting data way before there was a standard or writing. A group of monk-like devotees continuously recited the lineages over and over until all knew the history. Irish historians did it just like many of the others. We can believe that much of the history of the Jews from Abraham was collected this way until Moses put the beginnings in a book called “Genesis”. From Genesis chapter 2, we all know that during the 7th “era”, God rested and during the 8th era, he created Adam and Eve and put them in a wondrous garden, but what about before that time?

Genesis 1

The first verse indicates that the Earth [for humans] and the Heavens [for archangels and God] were made but THEN----- both places somehow “became” without form and void. God fixed Heaven quickly, but the Earth would have to be rebuilt.

The books of “Isaiah” and “Jeremiah” help us understand what happened. It was a massive war so bad we could not imagine it. Just about everything on the Earth was destroyed. [I know this seems like I am going way too far in the past, but it will make sense later; I promise.

Genesis 1:2-And the Earth BECAME without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep.

Book of Abraham 3:27-And the second [angel] was angry and left his estate [heaven] and many followed him and then the Lord came down. At the beginning was organized and formed the heavens and Earth. The Earth, after it was formed, became desolate, because they had not REformed anything but Earth, and the spirits of the gods [rebels who had instigated the war] were brooding upon the face of the deep. [Clearly, this “turning earth to a formless void” was after Satan, the angry “second angel”, and those that followed him left heaven.]

Isaiah 14:16-17-Is this the man that made the Earth to tremble [Satan and his followers], that did shake kingdoms; that made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities. [Some say if you have cities, people were living working and doing stuff in them.]

Jeremiah 4:23-27-[near the end of the wars] I beheld the Earth, and, lo, it was without form, and void; and the heavens, and they had no light. I beheld, and, lo, there was no man, and all the cities thereof were broken down For thus hath the LORD said, The whole land shall be desolate; yet will I not make a full end. [What this shows is that there were civilizations on the earth before this horrible war.]

Rebel Losers

Anyway, the losers, and there were thousands and thousands of them, all became human according to many texts. These people originally were called Nephilim ‘Fallen from Heaven’, but later they are called the Anak People “Giants with a long neck or head” and there were headed up by good old Satan. Like the others, he had been an angel, but now he was one of the Anak people. Clearly, Satan and his group were not Adam and his clan, so let’s look a little further.

The 6th Age Man [60,000 BC]

As we read Genesis, during the 6th Age, Man was recreated. Genesis says he was made to RE-POPULATE the Earth. Let me tell you a secret. This means there were people before this man was created that were destroyed during an ancient war. While this is interesting, this guy still was not Adam as he was “created after God Rested. Scientists called this “new man” the Homo-Erectus. To give us a little insight let’s look at a couple of ancient texts.

Creation Text [3 Creations of Man]

In the “Creation Text”, written by the Gnostic Jewish people, three separate creations of Adams were written about. God said let there be Light [Life]. The time was possibly between the Jurassic and Cretaceous period. I know the only things that were supposed to be here during that time were reptiles, but some time during all of this, the ancient humans appeared. Hundreds of pieces of evidence have now been collected to support this characteristics, so don’t shoot the messenger. The “people” of the very ancient times were somewhat similar to us according to the “Creation Text”. The first Adam was described as “Initially a man but he became spirit endowed”. This may be referencing the transformation of the ancient humans to angels after an extended evolution period. The three creations of Adam are indicated next. The second Adam, as we will discuss, was created on the 6th day and the third Adam was created on the 8th day according to the Bible. This last Adam was the one that found himself in the Garden of Eden. The major differences in these three “Adams”, according to the Nag Hammadi were as follows:

“Now the first Adam [ancient human] is spirit endowed and appeared on the first day. “

“The second Adam [primitive man] is soul-endowed and appeared on the sixth day.” [This is the man that was “created “ on the 6th Era according to Moses.]

“The third Adam, [the true Adam] is a creature of the Earth, that is the man of the law. He appeared on the eighth day and became numerous and produced every kind of scientific information of the soul endowed Adam.” [Scientists call this guy Cro Magnon or Homo Sapien-Sapien. Don’t ask me why there are 2 sapiens. The Bible calls this man the True Adam who lived 40 thousand years ago]

Codex Junius II [Ancient Humans]

The Greek Christians wrote Codex Junius a long time ago, but it may help us a little here to sense all of these creations and form a beginning to the Scota story.

“He first created Adam, and a noble race, the angel princes, which later perished utterly. For it seemed to them in their hearts that they themselves were lords of heaven” [According to this writer, the Ancient humans became angels and completely vanished. When they became angels, some thought themselves to be gods and that was their downfall.]

The Anak [200000 BC]

You might have noticed the Anak people were listed. This is because they were the angels described in “the Creation Book”. As punishment for the war, God turned them back into people, but they were pretty special people. They almost never died, and they had all the knowledge of the ages. Many of the Adamic people worshipped these people as gods. To make it worse, the Anak, mixed with the Adamics and made hybrids the Bible simply calls Gentiles. Chapter 6 of Genesis is a good verse to review, but just about everywhere we read the same thing.

Enoch 2:18-Three [Anak] came down and copulated with women and had offspring. [The “three” probably indicates three successive attempts at inbreeding with humans or three simultaneous inbreeding attempts.]

Nag Hammadi Creation Text-Now come let us [the Anak] lay hold of her [the human female] and cast our seed into her, so that when she becomes soiled she may not be able to ascend into the light-rather she whom she bares will be under our charge. [Here we find something called the “Light”. The Nephilim [or Anak] had lost it and they wanted humans to lose it as well. They also had sex with the post-Adam humans. Misery loves company. By the way; the light is also called the Spirit in other texts. It is this light which allows us to live in Heaven after death. The Anak were stuck on the Earth when they died.]

Nag Hammadi- [the Anak said] “come let us sow our seed in her [human female]” and they perused her and she laughed at them for their witlessness and in their clutches she became a tree and left her shadowy reflection-and they defiled it foully. [The Anak were not always successful at impregnating humans.]

Melchizedek-Pray for the offspring of the angels, together with seed which flowed forth from the father of all who made the entire universe from nothing there were engendered the gods and angels, and the men that came out of the seed, all of the natures, those in the heavens and those upon the Earth—now the nature of females was wanting among those that are in the heavens. They [the Anak] were bound with men and women, but these were not the true Adam nor the true Eve. [This verse talks about a difference between angels and people that were called gods {Nephilim/Anak people} and infers that a union between man and one of them was accomplished. It specifically indicates this human was not the true Adam and Eve. Later all people not having all their ancestors from

Adam, were called Gentiles.]

New evidence and timing analysis tell us that the Heaven War and beginnings of these special people happened about 200 thousand years ago or less.

Oops!!

As I mentioned people have been on the Earth during the time of the Dinosaurs and the Anak people have been here since the Heaven War when the Earth became Void [according to the Bible]. This seems very farfetched because you are thinking millions of years, but the timing, in fact, we now know, it is not that long.

Solar Flare Variation

The majority of geologists today tell you that radiometric dating has narrowed the age of Earth to about 4.5 billion years, give or take a couple of percent. We now know that is hogwash and are refining the timing more and more each day. The Earth and everything in it is much younger. Researchers at Purdue and Stanford have found evidence that radio decay rates are not constant at all. On December 13, 2006, a magnificent solar flare flung radiation and solar particles toward Earth. Measuring the decay rate of manganese-54 during the flare proved to be very interesting as the decay rate dropped during the time of the radiation fallout. It was determined that solar neutrinos zipped through space and affected Mn-54's decay rates used in the experiment. Just think about this. They were testing a single solar flare event and the change was massive. The sun has these things all the time, so the number of active isotopes is decreased making things appear to be OLDER.

Seasonal Variation

It was also found that the decay rates of silicon-32 and radium-226 showed seasonal variation, according to data collected at Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island and the Federal Physical and Technical Institute in Germany. This error was just the material sitting there with almost no outside interference.

Just Plane Different

Wood buried in igneous rock in Queensland Australia has been dated to 40 thousand years, while the basalt around it dated to 45 million years using nuclear decay. Both dating subjects should have given the same date, since the igneous rock was formed at the same time the wood was buried. Many of the “data-ologists” don’t tell you about major errors like this.

Lava Errors

Excess argon-36 was found in three out of 26 lava flows in recent times. So Argon/argon testing would show a much older date that actually was “KNOWN” This is believed to be because there was too much of the argon-36 in the first place. In the Grand Canyon lava flow testing showed lower levels of lava were younger than the top layers. At different volcano sites, that had eruption in 1949, 1954 and 1975, the same thing was noted. These samples were dated by Geochron Laboratories of Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Even though the oldest of these samples are just over sixty-years old, the lab tests provided ages that ranged from 270,000 years to 3.5 million years old. Additionally, we go to Mt. St. Helens and its eruptions in the 1980's. Samples there gave old ages in the range of 300,000 to 2.7 million years. Hopefully, you are beginning to see that we know less about how old we are than you believed before reading this.

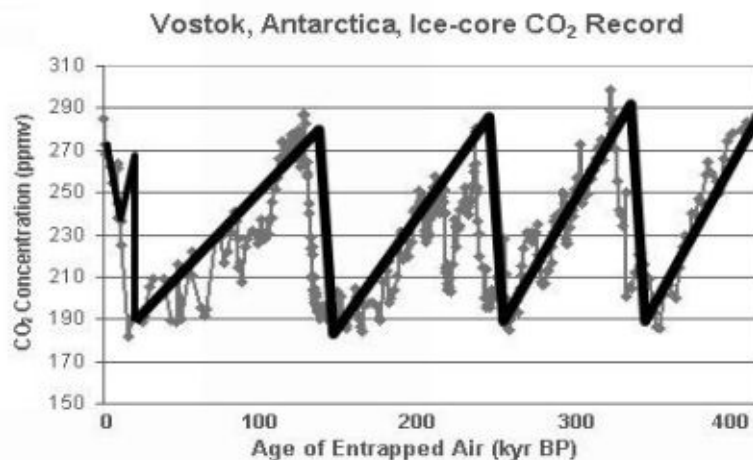

All of the basic timing of the Earth was in jeopardy. This is even more pronounced in the past as the solar actions would vary drastically as the distances shifted and atmospherics changed. Today we know that the nuclear decay dating of things including Electron Spin Dating and Uranium Dating, Thorium Protactinium Dating, Oxygen Sediment Dating, Lead-lead-lead Dating, and Argon Dating [which we originally used to date the ages of the Earth] are flawed. The old standard carbon 14 dating also seemed in jeopardy. Dating beyond about 30 thousand years was most likely much younger than tested. If there had been nuclear events [bombs or even Volcanic eruptions] the timing was also changed drastically. Other methods had to be employed to determine how everything should be timed, but classroom information was not changed. That would confuse the students.

Hawaii Hotspot Track

Hawaii is not a tiny group of islands, but instead is an indicator of where the Earth magma has a hotspot. As the crust moves differently than the stuff below, the hotspot relative to the crust moves and each time the hotspot burns through another piece of crust, a volcano erupts which seals off the area after a time and an island is made for a few thousand years. This travelling hotspot known as Hawaii is show next. The descriptions provided shows what was happening along the way. Because the hotspot moves perpendicular to the axis of the Earth we also know how the earth was spinning as shown by the arrows, but the actual timing is not described here.

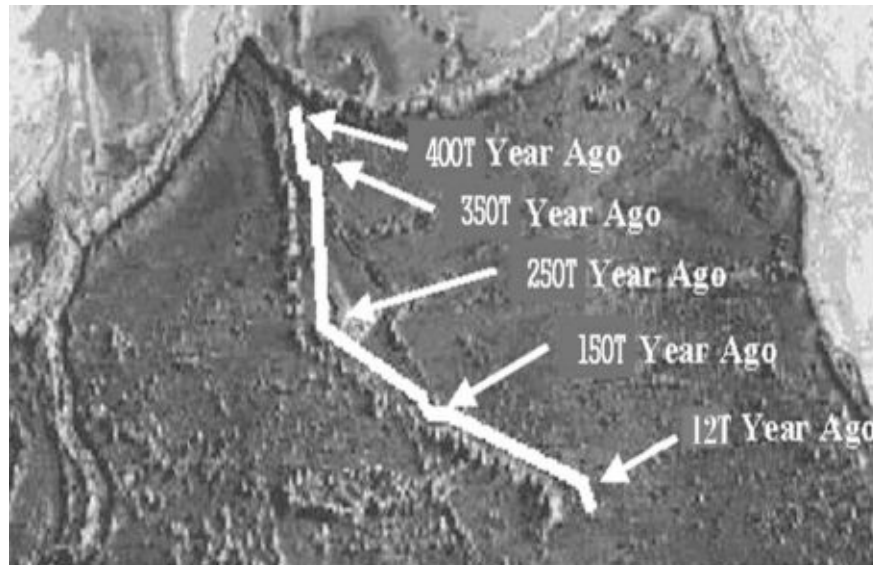

Luckily we have a good timing agent anywhere there is a large accumulation of Ice. In Greenland and Antarctica, researchers bore into the ice and look for the fine changes that represent seasons to determine how cold or how much CO<sub>2</sub> or whatever. These tests all show the same thing as indicated in the next chart. Every 120 thousand years or so, there is a marked change in temperature, CO<sub>2</sub>, and deuterium etc.

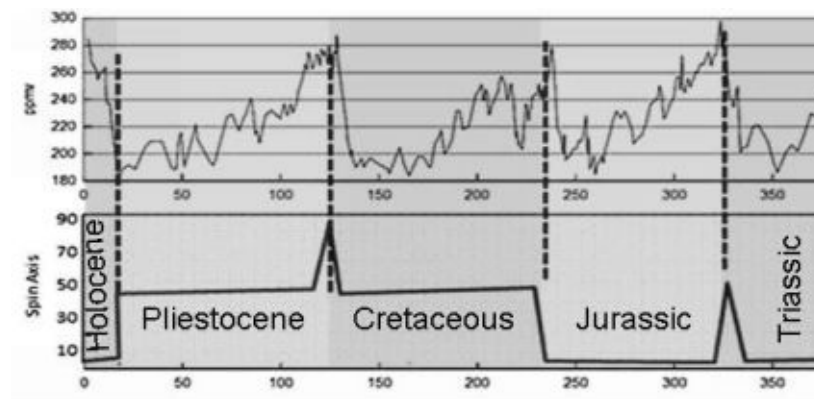

The changes match up to earth axis shifts. Every time the Earth shifts, something bad happens. Animals become extinct, massive floods cover the world etc. If we compare the timing of the last shift on the hotspot trail, knowing that was only 12 thousand years ago when the Mammoths froze instantly as they were shifted to the Arctic we can make a cursory determination of timing knowing the trails has moved 100 miles in the last 12 thousand years. The timing is shown below.

Certainly this is no way to confirm timing, so let's see how the "shift times" match up to the Ice cores. Using the shift timing noted above, we can test the time against Ice Cores as shown next.

By this, the Dinosaurs did not die 65 million years ago, but instead, the Event called the K-T layer [K stands for iridium Chalk] happened only 100 to 150 thousand years ago rather than 65 Million. I know that is a big difference, but it is the best information we have to date.

Therefore, the Anak did not live 65 million years on that live forever fruit, but they did live for tens of thousands of years, while the Adamic humans only lived for 5 to 6 thousand years. After the Tower of Babel War, man's lifetimes were reduced to between 80 and 150 years. With this little bit of background, let's get back to the Homo Erectus called the 6 Age man in Genesis Chapter 1..

Sex with the 6th Age Man

It seemed to be difficult to get Adamics for sex so some found Homo-Erectus people and did the same thing. While early scientists placed a creation date of a couple million years ago, today the believed time period of the “6th age” was around 100 thousand years ago. Here are some excerpts from Sumerian, Indian, and Iranian histories to show what happened. After having sex with a Nephelim, the man was no longer to be associated with beasts. His hair was no longer all over his body and his legs were diminished. He became a hybrid. [I think we will someday find that Homo-Erectus had hair all over its body while Neanderthal lost much of his hair.]

Indian History- The first humans were covered with thick hair. When they mated[ with Anak] they produced people as they are now.

Sumerian Gilgamesh Story--Aruru [God] pinched off some clay and created a [primitive man] Enkidu. His whole body was covered in hair. He knew neither people nor country, with cattle he quenched his thirst, a hunter and brigand— She [Shamhat –one of the Anak or Annunaki as the Sumerians described them] must take off her clothes and reveal her attractions. Do for the primitive man, as women [Annunaki women] do. She pulled not away, Enkidu was aroused. [This is the most descriptive and shows that there were female Anak that had sex with male humans. They sort of forced themselves to sleep with this lowly being.] -- Afterward-the gazelles saw Enkidu and scattered, for Enkidu had stripped--- his body was too clean [the hair was all gone]. His legs were diminished-he could not run as before, he had become wiser.—Enkidu, you have become like a god [Anak]- He shall bring up daughters of gods [hybrid men].[The Union between the Anak and the new human produced viable offspring.]*

Mandaeans of Iran Story-According to their traditions, the gods first made man. , -When he was finished, he looked like a man, but moved on all fours, had the face of an ape, and made noises like a sheep. Only later did he put in a soul and teach him and make him erect. [This ape-man was not Adam.]*

African Story- In Africa, the same story was told. Hairy men became human after coming in contact with Anak.

Southeast Asian Story-An extremely hairy human “female” named Bota Ili was cooking food. A non-hairy fisherman named Wata Rian saw her and got her* drunk. While she was asleep, he shaved her entire body. Only then did he find out she was a woman. She learned to wear clothes, they married, and they began a new race.

Emerald Tablets [Egyptian Story]-The master said-take them by the arts ye have learned of far across the waters until ye reach the land of the hairy barbarians, dwelling in caves of the desert. Follow there the plan. [The plan was to inbreed with the hairy barbarians.]

Ngombe Tribe-See if the Ngombe tribe folklore doesn't sound familiar. "A sky person [Anak] saw a hairy man [6th era man]. She married him and removed his hair. Then a Garden was made for man to live in." [The offspring of this union was less animal like just like all the other descriptions.]

Inca legends-The age of primitive man [hairy man?] was before the age of heroes [Anak and demigods] -[Primitive man turned into heroes probably by a process called breeding.]

Aztec and Mayan history-According to Codex "Laticano-Vatino" the first man [Homo Erectus man] was hairy. During the age of the four winds men turned into monkeys.[This may be a reference to man with thick hair.]

Greek History-The Greek Mythology was not as specific, but the Greeks did indicate that the early attempts at gods having offspring with man resulted in monsters. Here is what the Greeks said. "First only existed chaos and Gaia which would be the Earth was formed. Gaia gave birth to the sky. The gods [Ancient people] Gaia and Uranos had children-12 were titans, 3 were Cyclopes, and three were monsters with 100 hands. One of the titans took control [Cronos] and created the gods who took control by freeing the monsters. Zeus [leader of the Anak] had a woman created from clay [Pandora]. She open the box of knowledge and release evil into the world." [Later Zeus became a lecher with human women.] [Anak and humans mated.]

Ammah [36000-30000 BC]

I'm sure you have heard about Adam's second wife Eve and possibly even about his first wife Lilith, but this is about 2 of Eve's many children. Timnor and Ammah were their names and they were stinkers and it seems that some of that knowledge fruit tasted by Eve must have trickled down on both of them. Adam and Eve tried to teach their children after they were kicked out of the Garden of Eden, but knowledge has a way of corrupting. While some have placed Adam and Eve's creation about 7000 years ago, new details about the Cro-Magnon "instantaneous" creation and many supporting details place Adam at around 38000 BC. These 2 would have lived around 36000 years ago or so.

Eve and Her 60 Children

Eve had a number of children---60 to be exact. You know some of them, but let me introduce a few others that help us expand this whole strange theme. Eve's first born went away with his sister Lebuda after killing his younger brother or half brother depending on the text that you read. A couple of Eve's other children were experimenters. According to "Generations of Adam and Eve" and other ancient books, they created flying machines, great war machines, genetically modified animals and some pretty unusual things. We don't know too much about the other 45 or so children of Eve, but we can imagine that her hands were full. The next few examples are all from the book "Generations of Adam". Just imagine being 4 thousand or so and having a 50th child. It probably was old hat by that time and she probably didn't feel a thing.

[6:1-5] Among our little ones was Timnor and Ammah. Timnor understood physical law and created mighty machines. Ammah understood the secrets of creation. She manipulated the very fountain of life until she had created new forms of beings dedicated to the destruction of mankind

[8:4] Timnor and Ammah practiced every abomination. Tranter learned the ways of his mother Ammah and he did manipulate the very nature of man and beast to create new forms which God had not ordained

Notice that Timnor was responsible to building many machines. I'm not talking about a bow and arrow I'm talking about mighty machines that challenged physical law. Ammah had an even greater gift of genetic manipulation. She made all types of animals before the great flood. Many of the animals designed by Ammah were the Abominable or unclean animals that were specifically identified as a problem that was a major cause for the flood as God hated the idea of people making animals without regard for what they were actually doing. Ammah, evidently didn't care. I'm sure Eve tried to keep her from doing these things, but God finally punished the whole world and Noah had to get in a boat for a year while almost everything outside died. Before we get to that, here is a little more from this great historical work. I think you will like the story of this sister and brother who became husband and wife and added evil in the world.

“Generations of Adam” 6:2-6

When Timnor was eighteen years of age, he took Ammah to wife, she being fifteen years. Nevertheless, although the Lord Jehovah had blessed these two greatly with wisdom and understanding concerning the secrets of His creation, they followed not after the ways of Jehovah their Eloheim, for they took glory unto themselves, acknowledging not the Source of their power in the heavens. In the one hundredth year, Timnor and Ammah led a group of our children who, like themselves, worshipped the workmanship of their own hands and the power of their own minds, out of the Land of Cainan unto a valley northward which they denominated the Land of Haner, for, said they, here shall we throw off the ways of our Fathers and follow after our own wills. The people of Haner prospered in the land, building mighty cities in which they dedicated themselves to the fulfillment of every physical desire, but their souls were empty because they did not know the Lord Jehovah nor did they call upon His holy name. Yea, Timnor built great engines with which to deface his Mother Earth, --. With other machines of his contriving, his people flew through the air like birds and explored the depths of the lakes and rivers. He created also great instruments of destruction with which his people attacked the people of Cain, --the God-given abilities of men were turned into instruments of death and destruction. Ammah was not one whit behind her husband in creating wickedness, for she manipulated the very fountain of life, until she had created new forms of beings dedicated to evil and the destruction of mankind. From this time, sickness and disease began to spread among the sons of men, bringing sorrow and death upon them. Our hearts were filled with sorrow as we watched the doings of Timnor and Ammah and their brethren, for they were led ever deeper into the depravity of a fallen world.

Ammah Wasn't the Only Geneticist

The Zoroastrian “ZAND-AKASIH” says it this way - Satan miscreated creatures and they became useless. God saw the defiled and bad creatures, they became abominations to Him. Satan's downfall was the unrighteous creation of the creatures and ignorance—[By this we can determine that designing animals had been going on well before the creation of Adam and his descendants.] The Sumerians indicated that all types of animals were created specifically for the war between the gods. There must have been all type of DNA baselines in storage or all around.

What Type of Animals?

Guess what? Scientists are now finding all types of dinosaurs that are not fossilized. Their bone marrow and soft tissues are still ---tissue. This is a problem for many as some believed all dinosaurs were killed 65 million years ago when a meteor hit the Earth. Certainly, they now know that the timing reference used for all extremely ancient dating is flawed. A few years ago, they found out that nuclear decay changes. When the Sun is active, there are many neutrinos bombarding atoms making this look older. What has now been determined to have been a couple hundred thousand years originally was thought to be 65 million years. Oh well! Wouldn't you think they would have told us????? That being said, it does not account for the nonfossilized dinosaurs which would have died no more than a 25 thousand years ago. This nuclear decay strangeness does not affect other dating methods so most dating out to 30 or 40 thousand year sago can be generally trusted so these NEW dinosaurs were genetically recreated during the time of Ammah's experimentations.

Clean Animals

She and those who followed her work did not stop their. They began miscreating everything. The animals that God created the Bible called “Clean animals” while those that had been “modified” were called unclean or abominable” animals. I could give you a list, but it would be too long. Certainly the Dragon that Daniel destroyed in the last chapter of his book in the Bible was one of the “unclean” ones.

Timnor Helps

If you ever wondered how the Kangaroo got to Australia in the first place and was saved from the worldwide flood, we can possibly thank Timnor's flying machines. Certainly, there was world trade before and after the flood of Noah using these types of machines called Merkaba by the Sumerians, Vimanas by the pre-Hindu, Valiaxi by the Far Easterners, Flying Canoes by some of the American tribes, and Fiery Chariot by the early Jews.

Enoch 74:15— I saw likewise the chariots of heaven, running in the world above to the gates in which the stars turn, which never set. One of these is greater than all which goes around the world. [This ship going around the world sounds similar to what we do today without space ships, doesn't it?]

Anyway; Timnor's creation possibly sped up the re-colonization of the world. Here are just a few of the hundreds of depictions.

Leboa Daughter of Tamar

After a hundred years or so, Timnor and Ammah got married and had a bunch of kids. Each of them took up one of the more mystical areas of study and they had children. Soon there were thousands and they went to war with the thousands of people from the land of Nod where Cain had become King. The following again comes from “Generations of Adam”. One of the descendents of Ammah was named Onesima. Onesima’s great granddaughter would turn the ties of war. Her name was Leboa. She was just like her great grand dad Timnor. Timnor had developed war machine, submarines, flying ships and things that defiled the very earth. Leboa wanted to help the warring people of this time even more.

2:4- In the process of time, six sons were born unto Timnor and Ammah.

7:3-6- The people of Timnor and Cain began to come upon our children and stole herds and produce, killing any who sought to prevent them. We [Adam and some of his children who stayed true to God’s ways] left. Many stayed, determined to fight for their homes.

The wars simply got out of hand. Let’s see some more.

8:13-14- A bright light shown from heaven illuminating the whole palace of king Canaan, and a mighty noise from heaven shook the air. Whence the palace stood there was only dust. A war broke out among the people. Armies devastated the land. The people suffered great desolation. There was destruction everywhere.

10:2- The king of Canaan directed his people in erecting great barriers of power around the city of Haner, so that none could pass into the city-neither could any missile penetrate the forces which surrounded the city.

They Didn’t Know About Leboa

10& 11- He directed his people in erecting great barriers of power around the city of Haner, so that none could pass into the city without the consent of the inhabitants thereof. Neither could any missile penetrate the forces which surrounded the city. Thus were the people of Palai amazed, when they came upon the city of Haner, for all their devices could do no harm to the inhabitants of the city who remained secure behind their fortifications. Nevertheless, the people of Palai were expert in many devices, and there was one among them, even Leboa the daughter of Tamar, the daughter of Rachel of the House of Onesima, who devised a sword of light which penetrated the wall of defense around the city of Haner and began to drain the power from the wall. When the people of Haner saw this, they were in great consternation, but Queen Luia stood up in the midst of the people, and notwithstanding she was bowed down with age, she exhorted them to faith in the Lord Jehovah who would preserve his people from the wicked ones. Then united all the people in fasting and prayer, and King Canaan did enter with Nimrod the High Priest into the Holy of Holies where they did pray unto the Eloheim; yea, even from three days were they offering up their prayer while the people prayed without in the temple.

Unfortunately not much more is known about what happened except that a great number of the people that trusted in the ways of God were destroyed which added to God's desire to flood the world. Luckily, Adam had died by this time living only 5500 years according to the book of "Adam and Eve II".

The Biblical Texts tell us by the time of Lemech, the worshippers of God removed themselves from everyone else and lived on top of a mountain. There were not too many of them as most followed the ways of Cain studying the arts of magic, the methods of war, the manipulation of animals and metals, and they rejected their creator. This made him angry. We are about 12 thousand years ago now and God wants to sort of shock people back into some common sense.

Pleistocene [200000-10,000BC]

I know there are many other names for this era, but it is much easier to just say Pleistocene. I'm not getting into this too much here, but about 12 thousand years God gave one last chance to the many who were doing bad things. A worldwide war was in progress and men even were stationed on our nearest planet [Rahab]. The Anak certainly were attempting to take "Heaven" again. Again they lost and this time, the Bible tells us the planet RAHAB was completely destroyed. As massive meteorites from its moon showered the Earth setting horrible fires, Venus would never again be livable. The shock to the earth caused its axis to shift and Mammoths that were eating flowers one minute were thrust into the Arctic of Siberia and froze solid with flowers in their mouths. Scientists call this time the end of the Pleistocene Age. The Bible writers told us some of the details. Here is a sampling.

Psalm 89:10 - "Thou [God] hast broken Rahab in pieces, as one that is slain;" [The pieces sound like meteoritic pieces. Especially as we read further.]

Isaiah 51:9-"O arm of the LORD; awake, as in the ancient days, in the generations of old. Art thou not it that hath split Rahab, and wounded the dragon?" [The Dragon, most likely, symbolized the mighty ruler of the Anak people. Note the idea that the planet being split could very well be the splitting of Venus we can see today.]

Job 26:12- "The boastful Angel and his followers rebelled [This is talking about the Anak people]. Yahweh destroyed their dwelling places. He divideth the sea with his power, and by his discretion he smashed Rahab. It was reduced to stones of fire." [By this verse we could well believe that quite a few people were living on Rahab when it was destroyed. Here is a stretch. The stones of fire could be meteors hitting the earth.]

Jasher 2:5-6- "-and the sons of men forsook the Lord all the days of Enosh [Adam's grandson] and his children; and the anger of the Lord was kindled on account of their works and abominations which they did in the Earth. [This is talking about Ammah and Timnor] And the Lord caused the waters of the river Gihon to overwhelm them, and he destroyed and consumed them, and he destroyed the third part of the Earth, and notwithstanding this, the sons of men did not turn from their evil ways--" [The oceans began to rise and it destroyed

many people. The water didn't rise as high as the worldwide flood thing, but many died just the same. The Earth became unstable and flipped on its axis.]

The Earth frozen area melted and many Island cultural centers went beneath the waves. A massive exodus of the "Red skinned" Anak who lived in these areas was underway and Noah came along preaching for over 120 years that the world would again be destroyed with a worldwide flood. Some prepared but most laughed and were, eventually, killed. After Rahab/Venus was destroyed and the earth shifted on its axis, many animals died. This was the end of the Pleistocene and the beginning of the Holocene [modern] Era. That's where Norea came into our history.

Norea, Noah's Cousin [8000BC]

This would have been after Noah had preached about the coming destruction and he had a pretty good head start on building his new home. This would have been during the Holocene era around 10 thousand years ago or so. Here is an interesting ancestor not typically read about. Her name was Norea and she affected this story, in an unusual way. According the Gnostic book "Hypostasis of the Archeons", Noah had a cousin that was not quite as perfect as he was and she didn't get on the boat. Noah indicated he would not let her on board. She got rather mad when he told her she could not go. Let's examine the story directly.

The chief said to Norea, Eve's daughter [actually many greats from Eve], "Your mother, Eve had sex with us". Norea said, 'You did not know my mother; instead it was your own female counterpart that you knew.' Then the chief said, 'You must have sex with us as did your mother.' Norea cried to heaven and an angel rescued her."

In the remaining part of this verse, the "chiefs" mistakenly had sex with a tree stump thinking it was Norea's mother. I'm told it was a nice looking tree, but the main things to see here are that Norea got away and Norea was rather spunky. Let's read another segment and see just how spunky she really was.

"Norea, one of Eve's children came to Noah and wanted to board his Ark. He refused and she blew it up, so Noah built another Ark."

The preceding image represents the second Ark as it is being loaded with animals. I'm not sure that this has much to do with the history, but who knows? It does seem to show that explosives were here at a much earlier age than conventional theories. Norea wasn't the only one that made Noah's life somewhat miserable. Just about everyone was "bad" and the Creator God was getting tired of the things that were going on, even after, the harsh punishment and cue of impending disaster. Almost no one went back to listening to God. Therefore God decided to start over. Threw all the animals in the world and a few of Noah's closest family members in a boat and drowned the planet. OK! The kangaroos were saved in a different boat, but, you know what I mean. Noah's family brings us to another not well known character. This one was named Naamah. Noah and she were a "couple".

Naamah, Noah's Wife [7000BC]

Noah was an oddball, so he married an oddball. Not only was he born with completely white hair and a halo of sorts, he didn't get married until he was pretty old. According to the book of "Jasher", Noah was perfect and didn't get married until he was 498 years old and do you think he would pick someone younger than him?

No! He picked a 580-year-old woman named Naamah. Today, any children would have been tested for "down syndrome", but in the early days this was just middle age. Ok, it was on the far side of middle age and people may have teased Naamah for marrying a man that was almost a hundred years younger than she was. Somehow, the marriage worked.

Jasher 5:13-16- "And Noah was a just man, he was perfect in his generation, And God said thou shalt raise up seed, and thy children with thee, in the midst of the earth; and Noah went and took a wife, and he chose Naamah the daughter of Enoch, and she was five hundred and eighty years old. And Noah was four hundred and ninety-eight years old, when he took Naamah for a wife."

Now being the daughter of Enoch was strange enough, but why in the world would she marry someone that was so very young. She, possibly, witnessed her father being taken into heaven. OK! Noah was a nice enough guy, but Naamah was, evidently a virgin at age 580. After marriage she had four lovely male children who each married much earlier in their life. That being said, three of Naamah's sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth, along with their other 1,400 male grandchildren Noah had after the flood continued the reign of Noah after that nasty flood. [That is a combined number so don't go thinking it is weird.]

1400 Male Grandchildren

Noah and Naamah only had 4 children before the flood because they started late. I'll get to the 4th in a minute. The children more well known children, on the other hand, got started young and they made many babies so this is a testament to their "rugged" wives. Shem didn't have as many children as his other brothers. The having fewer children may be an important sign. It is believed that the reason that Shem had fewer children was that his clan inbred with the Adamic race [the descendents of Noah] more exclusively than did the others. Ham, on the other hand--well-- he just went wild. Even if you live to be hundreds of years old, 730 male children must have been some kind of record.

I'm sure his wives didn't appreciate it, but nothing is written about their thoughts and just think how many diapers they must have gone through. I'm sorry, my mind was drifting for a minute. I will try to stay on track. The book of Jasher holds the only reference to the extremely large number of children of the sons, so it can't be checked, However, The Book of Jasher is identified in our Bible as a great book of wisdom and history, so we can determine that there were substantial quantities of grandchildren at Naamah's house from time to time. Other references place the quantities at lower numbers, but I think we can be fairly certain that the population explosion was enormous after the flood in order to get the billions of people on the earth over the past 9 thousand years; especially with all the wars that keep popping up.

Jasher 7: 9-20- The sons of Japheth were about four hundred and sixty men. The sons of Ham were about seven hundred and thirty men. The sons of Shem were about three hundred men.

I love that histories use the word "about". These guys didn't even know how many kids they had. By that time their wives probably didn't remember either. It should be noted here that according to the "Tales of the Patriarchs", Shem only had 10 children, Ham had eleven, and Japheth had only 10 children. I like the Jasher version just because it is more colorful and the Bible indicates that the Book of Jasher has the "wisest" information. By the way, notice that only Naamah's grandsons were counted so the child count might have been much, much higher. Here is a horrible thought. If Noah and Naamah had any female children they were not only not talked about; they weren't even taken on board the boat. It wasn't fun being a female in the olden days. In Noah's family it wasn't good to not worship God either.

Bith Noah's 4th Son [7000BC]

While we are on this preflood stuff, let me tell you something else about Noah described in a several texts tracing Irish history. This is the story of Bith. I know you haven't heard of him but he was one of the sons of Noah. According to the "Annals of the Four Masters" and other places, he did not stay with the pure Adamics and when there was rumor of a massive flood coming, he went to his father who refused to let go with him get a place in the Arc. Desperately, Bith gathered up his children including his sons Adna, Bath, and Ladra his wife Birren and his daughter Cessair. As fast as they could go northward. With them were 2 other men named Fintan and Ladra and 50 other women. They became perhaps the first inhabitants of Ireland to escape the coming Flood. In Ireland the 3 men and 50 women split up. Bith took 25 women and headed for the tallest mountain, Carrauntoohil, which reached 2/3 of a mile in the sky. There, he and the others, rode out the following storm and worldwide flood [7000BC]. It is believed the others did not heed the warnings of Noah and were lost. Bith, evidently, went on to father a number of survivors. I have no idea how many men went with the 25 women and Bith initially. Possibly, he was by himself and very tired, but he had 1/2 the women so we can assume 2 other men were also saved. In one story we are told his daughter, Cessair died before they made it to the mountain. We can say they sort of primed the area for the many who will be coming later.

A variant account of this first journey has Cessair in a slightly different role as she is given a more important role in this version though in that she is credited with bringing the first sheep to Ireland and they landed on Sliab Betha [Bith's Mountain] which is now called Slieve Beah. We are not told exactly how many people started the voyage, but they had 3 ships. One sank leaving only 3 men [Bith, Fintan, and Ladra, Cessair and 49 other women. The women were shared out evenly among the men. Each also took one as his primary wife: Fintan took Cessair, Bith took Bairrfhind and Ladra took Alba. Bith and Ladra soon died [possibly from exhaustion]. Fintan was left with all the women. According to legend, Cessair died at Connacht.

Other Histories

According to the Quran, Noah other son's name was Yam.

According to the 9th century work the “Anglo-Saxon Chronicle” the 4th son's name was Sceafa and he was born on board the Arc.

In other early works Noah's 4th son was not born until after the flood and his name is substantially confused as either Barvin, Yonton, Ionitus, Yônatôn, Jonithes, Maniton, Ihonitus, Abu Naițur, Yoniko, or Janus that taught Nimrod Astrology.

Babylonian-I wouldn't be too worried about it; according to the Babylonian writer Berossus, Noah had 30 additional children born after the Deluge.

Review

I know this is going a little fast, but we have a number of years to go through and I want you to get a better picture than you have gotten from some of the “so called” history books in the classrooms. Hopefully, I have not confused you too much, but let me review a little.

Ancient Humans and the Heaven War

Man was here a long time ago and many became angels. These angels got haughty and tried to take control on their new world. It didn't work and they were punished by becoming human again and they were stranded on an earth which needed a lot of work.

6th and 8th Age Creations

After a while a new human was “created” along with new animals. God rested to see what would happen and then he made Adam and placed him in a beautiful Garden.

The Anak people [which means giants with long necks or heads] mated with the others and made crossbred humans we can call Gentiles. Some of the Adamics tried to stay separate as God commanded. This was the lineage of Noah.

Some were caught up in “worldly things”. Massive wars killed many. Flying machines allowed for worldwide trade. Soon the wars went beyond the Earth and the Planet Rahab even was destroyed making the earth shift its axis and freezing some animals while drowning inhabitants of Island nations like Atlantis.

Noah preached for 120 years and built a boat. After it was blown up he built it again and got animals inside and all but one of his sons.

Bith and Cessair and 56 others left for Ireland and some of them were saved on top of a mountain to be its first post flood inhabitants.

Let's See Where We Are

There are 6 historical groups that arrived in Ireland before the present day Gaels and I want to concentrate on these civilizations as well as the Gals led by one of the Scotas. The first three groups are known by the names of their respective leaders and the last two are only known by the names of the races involved. We just talked about the first of these settlers. These five invaders were:

- Cessair [Around 7000BC]

- Famorians [Possibly 5000BC]
- Partholon [Possibly 3000BC]
- Nemed [Possibly 2500BC]
- The Fir Bolg [Possibly 2200BC]
- The Tuatha De Danann [Possibly 2000BC]
- Scota and the Gaels [about 1300BC]

Migration

After the Flood subsided, Noah's children moved North East and west as shown. The main unit of Japheth's family we will look at is from Magog who fathered the Scythians. The chart below shows how the Scythians moved throughout Europe and were instrumental in what was known as the Aryan invasion.

Irish Invasions

After the War, people scattered. The ones we will be looking at mostly traveled to Ireland and the British Isles. The chart following shows the general invasions of the Islands. Cassair was just before the flood, but the others were in response to the Babel War outcome including the invasion of the Gauls 3500 years ago.

Gaul Invasion

The Gaul invasion is important in that it involves 3 different processes from Egypt as well as the Scythian descendents. This deserves more detail. The invasion took a number of centuries and is tracked below.

After the Gauls had civilized the Islands, the Vikings, Aglo-Saxons, and Romans all took their turn as shown below. There are a few interesting elements we will cover, but many already know quite a bit about this recent history.

Flood & War [7000-4000BC]

While all that was going on, I know you know this story, but after 11 generations from Adam [very, very long generations], the earth was destroyed a second time by massive flooding tidal waves and shifts in the Earth's axis. It was a mess, but 8 of the Adamic people and quite a few of the Anak or Anakim [sons of the Anak] survived the flood and instantly they took control of just about everything. The following image is a depiction of Noah's family after their Arc landed. The Sumerians tell us the Annunaki [same as Anak] huddled in their sky vessels and cried out during the storms but survived.

What we find is that these Anak or Annunaki people were noticeably different than the Adamics. For one thing their skin was Reddish, they were huge, they had long heads and they lived a long, long time, even after the flood. They were called Lords of Annu [Egyptians], Annunaki [Those who fell from Heaven-Sumerians], Anak or Anakim [Giants with long heads or necks-Jews] and Arya [Metal colored men-India], Gods and demigods – Greece and other places. The Adamics were olive skinned. Various Gentile groups [Those who mixed with the Anakim] had other characteristics and colorations, but everyone seemed to get along for a while as the Earth dried and flourished. Cities were reestablished around the world and commerce brought goods from all around. Noah's children were instructed to never associate or have relations with the Anak people or God would be mad. Many did not listen.

Japheth [7000-5000BC]

With all that, let's go back to Noah and his family. He had four children [or 34], but only three of them are known to have followed the ways of God and Ham was very questionable. Shem and his family stayed in the Middle East while Ham and his family went southwest to inhabit Egypt. Along the way, Nimrod came along and quite a few Anakim people [first descendants of the ANAK also known as Demigods] stayed in this region called the Canaanites. The "last" son [at least the last born before the flood] was named Japheth and he is the beginning of part of this trip to find the mystical Scota and understand how Ireland became civilized.

Japheth and the Picts

Japheth was the 11th generation from Adam and his clan began around the 70th Century BC about the time of the flood. He and his descendents traveled toward the northern countries including Europe and Asia. Japheth was the main ancestor of the Irish and Scottish, but he was also the father of the Thracians that eventually became Greeks, Germans and, even the Picts. They were called Picts by the Romans which meant “painted ones” for 2 reasons; they had red hair, and they painted themselves blue and fought the Romans nude so fiercely they were called the Berserkers. Emperor Hadrian finally just put up a wall to separate them from the “civilized Romans”. Unfortunately or naturally, The Japheth clan did not always stay true to the Adamic clan heritage and had relations outside with the Anak or Anakim. We’ll look at them a little more later. Right now, let me give you a tiny glimpse into a very influential Anakim named Thoth. Don’t be worried about his description of Atlantis. I know you thought Plato just made the place up, but he got the information from the Egyptian Solon.

Thoth [12000-3000BC]

A contemporary of Noah, The Khemetians/ Egyptians were ruled by one of the Anakim named Thoth. Luckily, we have quite a bit of information about this ancient ruler and a document originally called the Smaragdine Tablet was a transcribed work either written by him or about him. It was transcribed into Arabic around the 6 Century AD and I think an excerpt will help us understand this time period a lot better. We can also get some confirmation about the type of people that lived during this time. Today, this document is called the Emerald Texts. Before I get into this, let me show you a drawing of Thoth done by the Egyptians [see the following graphic]. Yes! He was part Ibis, who sometimes could appear as an ape and other times, he was a big man. Thoth brought Egypt its initial wealth, science, and even one of the Pyramids.

The writing next to Thoth is a copy of the first tablet. After each segment, I will provide a comment.

I, THOTH, the Atlantean, master of mysteries, keeper of records, mighty king, magician, living from generation to generation, being about to pass into the halls of Amenti, set down for the guidance of those that are to come after, these records of the mighty wisdom of Great Atlantis. [So before he went to Khemet, Thoth had lived in the group of Islands called Atlantis. Later Plato got information from the Egyptian Solon to write about this island nation.]

In the great city of KEOR on the island of UNDAL, in a time far past, I began this incarnation. Not as the little men of the present age did the Giant ones of Atlantis live and die, ----Giant were my people in the ancient days, great beyond the conception of the little people now around me; knowing the wisdom of old, seeking far within the heart of infinity knowledge that belonged to Earth's youth. – [Like I have stated, the Anak and Anakim were giants and they lived a very long time which allowed them to gain all type of knowledge] And this was an Island of the Anak.]

---Gradually from the Kingdoms of Atlantis passed waves of consciousness that had been one with me, only to be replaced by spawn of a lower star. ----Over the world then broke the great waters, drowning and sinking, changing Earth's balance until only the Temple of Light was left standing on the great mountain on UNDAL still rising out of the water; some there were who were living, saved from the rush of the fountains. [This is talking about the end of the Pleistocene 12 thousand years ago when Venus [the lower Star] was destroyed. The earth axis shifted and the Island went underwater.]

---Gathered I then my people and entered the great ship of the Master. Upward we rose into the morning.

Dark beneath us lay the Temple. Suddenly over it rose the waters. Vanished from Earth, until the time appointed, was the great Temple. Fast we fled toward the sun of the morning, until beneath us lay the land of the children of KHEM [Egypt]. Raging, they came with cudgels and spears, lifted in anger seeking to slay and utterly destroy the Sons of Atlantis. [ This is talking about the second worldwide flood from 9000 years ago. Not even the Undal Mountains were above the waves this time. Just like the Sumerian descriptions, these people would have been frightened as they had to stay in their flying fortresses for many months.]

Then raised I my staff and directed a ray of vibration, striking them still in their tracks as fragments of stone of the mountain. Then spoke I to them in words calm and peaceful, telling them of the might of Atlantis, saying we were children of the Sun and its messengers. Cowed I them by my display of magic-science, until at my feet they groveled, when I released them. [The “normal people of Khem thought Thoth was a god and his science was magic.]

Long dwelt we in the land of KHEM, long and yet long again. ---Long time dwelt I in the land of KHEM, doing great works by the wisdom within me. [Initially a large number of the Anakim lived their, but something happened , possibly the Tower of Babel War -6 thousand years ago, and Thoth was the only direct descendent left. The others had gone all over the world.]

*Upward grew into the light of knowledge the children of KHEM, watered by the rains of my wisdom. ---Great grew the sons of KHEM, conquering the people around them, [With the help of Thoth, the Khemetians, started to become the most powerful region in the world.]

*--Raised I high over the entrance, a doorway, a gateway leading down to Amenti. Few there would be with courage to dare it, few pass the portal to dark Amenti. Raised over the passage, I, a mighty pyramid, using the power that overcomes Earth force (gravity). Deep and yet deeper place I a force-house or chamber; from it carved I a circular passage reaching almost to the great depth. There in the bottom, set I the crystal, sending the ray into the "Time-Space," drawing the force from out of the ether, concentrating upon the gateway to Amenti. Other chambers I built and left vacant to all seeming, yet hidden within them are the keys to Amenti. He who in courage would dare the dark realms, let him be purified first by long fasting. --Builded I the Great Pyramid. [If you are brave enough, there is supposed to be something really neat very deep inside the Great Pyramid we call Cheops Pyramid.]

There is a lot more, but I just wanted to give you confirmation from another source of the timing, events, and character of the people we are talking about. After Thoth, the First kingdom after Zep-Tepi was initiated 3150BC. The King was named Tarmer and he was a big fellow. Imagine that. We'll get to him later. Right now, let's look Magog and his immediate family then switch to one of the children of Ham named Nimrod. He's the one that sort of started everyone wandering in the first place as people lost the ability to talk to each other without sound from their lips.

Magog and the Anakim [5000-4000BC]

According to Irish historians, Japheth's son, Magog, was in the line of the Irish and Magog wandered from the ways of his father Noah. His wife, was named Targ. Now Targ was either a full blooded Anak or related in a strong way. Her Great, Great, grandfather was reported to be the famous Zeus [King of the Anak]. I know some of you are having a hard time with all of this because you think that 8 people made all of the races in the world, but that just is not so nor is it taught in Jewish or other historical literature. What I'm saying is that the main block of Irish descendents were all Gentiles [Half-breeds]. If you are wondering about the Anak lineage, Zeus' son Targitaus and Borysethenes' daughter had a boy named Colaxias who fathered Scohoti. who fathered Targ. The son of Magog and Targ was named Massagetae and he is credited as being the first of the Scythians and Samaritans. His son Scythes, and grandson Baath (13th generation from Adam) expanded the Scythian empire to a huge area taking up much of Western Europe and has been accredited with introducing the Celtic language that became the major dialect of that part of the world. There are other similar stories that we should review as well.

Baath and the War

Baath is important in that he survived the Babel War. Scythians didn't do this by hiding underground, but instead they had worked with the Anakim to take India and they moved around on huge covered wagons 30 feet long sort of like an early Winnebago without running water or air-conditioning.

Travel to Scandinavia

According to 15th Century historian Johannes Magnus, Magog migrated to Finland 88 years after the flood, and that his five sons were Suenno (first of the Swedes), Gethar (first of the Goths), Ubbo (who built Old Uppsala and ruled Finland), and 2 others, Thor and German. To put this in perspective, Queen Christina of Sweden indicated she was number 249 in a list of kings going back to Magog.

Hercules [10000-3000BC]

Like many of the ancient histories there are alternates we should consider. The Pontic Greeks featured Scythes, as a child of Hercules and Echidna rather than of the lineage of Magog. Their historians stated that Hercules was carrying off the cows of Geryon and arrived in the region which is now inhabited by the Scyths. While he slept, his mares disappeared. He searched for them and found a maiden that was part serpent (Echidna). She had his cows but required him to mate with her to get them back. She got pregnant and had three children one was named Scythes and our investigation to find Scots continues.

As we try to tie in Hercules to all of this, we find that his mother was Alcmene. She was incredibly beautiful and she was married to a Greek king named Amphitryon. Zeus was a rapist as he tricked her into having sex. Her father was named Electryon [not the Electron in an atom] and his father and mother were Perseus and Andromeda [another beauty] Andromeda was the daughter of Cepheus and Cassiopeia, king and queen of the North African kingdom of Aethiopia. And those get back to the Egyptians we will be talking about later. The following 16th century picture shows how Andromeda was to be sacrificed for her beauty before Perseus came and rescued her so that Hercules could have sex with a half snake to allow Scythes to be born. It is believed that Perseus and Andromeda went on to start the Persian nation. This group aligned with the Anakim giants and became known as the Aryans.

The Arya [Metal colored giants] were also known as Aryan race and they took control of the northern part of India during the Tower of Babel Wars. Some have tried to tell you the Aryan Invasion only happened, 1500BC, but there is NO truth in it, no matter how many classroom book told you the lie. They will tell you the Aryans were master white people, but that is also incorrect as the Arya [metal men] were the color of Copper [red] or the color of Iron rust [Red]. The Persians called the “prewhite” as the white race came from them.

Nimrod & Babel [4000-3000BC]

Noah's grandson had a half Anakim, half Adamic child named Nimrod. The book of Jasher says he was a mighty or a giant man. In some ways very similar to another half breed from Greek history named Hercules. Nimrod helped instigate another horrible worldwide war. His citadel in Lebanon known as Baalbek or simply the Tower of Babel was used as a focal point of the war. The war ended badly as we are told. We read in the book of Jasher again that, 1/3 of the people around the world were killed, another 1/3 became like animals and the remaining people scattered to all parts of the world. Here are just a few of the texts about the war.

Jasher 7:23-33- And Cush the son of Ham, the son of Noah, took a wife in those days in his old age [This was an Anakim wife, we find out from other sources]. She bare a son and they called his name Nimrod, saying, At that time the sons of men again began to rebel and transgress against God, -- And Nimrod became strong - and God gave him might and strength, and he was a mighty hunter in the earth, -- And Nimrod strengthened himself, and he rose up from amongst his brethren, and he fought the battles of his brethren against all their enemies round about. And the Lord delivered all the enemies of his brethren in his hands, and God prospered him from time to time in his battles, and he reigned upon earth.

Jasher 7:34-44- And when Nimrod was forty years old, at that time there was a war between his brethren and the children of Japheth, so that they were in the power of their enemies. And Nimrod went forth at that time, and he assembled all the sons of Cush and their families--- And he said to them, Do not fear, neither be alarmed, for all our enemies will be delivered into our hands, and you may do with them as you please.-- And they fought against their enemies, and they destroyed them, and subdued them, --all his brethren, together with those who knew him before, assembled to make him king over them, -- he advised with his counselors to build a city for his palace, and they did so. And they found a large valley "west" [west of the coastline where Hams descendents passed.], and they built him a large and extensive city, and Nimrod called the name of the city that he built Shinar [This is a large area just west of Lebanon], for the Lord had vehemently shaken his enemies and destroyed them--and his kingdom became very great. Nimrod reigned in the earth over all the sons of Noah, and they were all under his power and counsel.-he was more wicked than all the men that were before him, from the days of the flood until those days.-- he rebelled against the Lord, and taught all his subjects and the people of the earth his wicked ways; and Mardon his son was more wicked than his father.

Tower of Babel

So Nimrod built a might citadel in Lebanon named Baalbek to stage another war against Heaven. He was not successful. BY the way, the Citadel is NOT in Babylon. It is true when Nimrod returned to Babylon to rule, he put up a number of effigies of his once great citadel, but nothing else fits.

Jasher 9:23-38- And all the families assembled consisting of about six hundred thousand men, and they went to seek an extensive piece of ground to build the city and the tower, and they sought in the whole earth and they found none like one valley at the east of the land of Shinar. -- And when they were building they built themselves a great city and a very high and strong tower; and on account of its height the mortar and bricks did not reach the builders in their ascent to it, until those who went up had completed a full year, and after that, they reached to the builders and gave them the mortar and the bricks; thus was it done daily.-- And they built the tower and the city, and they did this thing daily until many days and years were elapsed.--- And they ceased building the city and the tower; therefore he called that place Babel, for there the Lord confounded the Language of the whole earth; behold it was at the east of the land of Shinar. And as to the tower which the sons of men built, the earth opened its mouth and swallowed up one third part thereof, and a fire also descended from heaven and burned another third, and the other third is left to this day, and it is of that part which was aloft, and its circumference is three days' walk.

Shinar was a fairly large region northeast of Babylon and south east of Ashur. Once they were at Shinar, they traveled EAST from that which would have put them very close to the coast, way north east of Babylon.

Jasher 8:32-39- And God said to the seventy angels who stood foremost before him, to those who were near to him, saying, Come let us descend and confuse their tongues, that one man shall not understand the language of his neighbor, and they did so unto them. And from that day following, they forgot each man his neighbor's tongue, and they could not understand to speak in one tongue. [If you can no longer understand and if you forget you neighbor's tongue, something bad is happening to your intelligence level.] And the Lord smote the three divisions that were there, and he punished them according to their works and designs. Those who said, we will ascend to heaven and serve our gods, became like apes and elephants. [Nasty punishment] Those who said, We will smite the heaven with arrows, the Lord killed them, one man through the hand of his neighbor; and those who were left amongst them, when they knew and understood the evil which was coming upon them, they forsook the building, and they also became scattered upon the face of the whole earth. --And many of the sons of men died in that tower, a people without number. [Besides making people dumber in that they lost a level of communication capability there were three more punishments. Some were killed, some were transported to distant places, and the reset had something happen that made them similar to apes. If the brain capability is reduced, the people would have been apelike.]

Genesis 11:7-9- Come, let us go down, and there confuse their language, that they may not understand one another's speech. -- Therefore its name was called Babel, because there the LORD confused the language of all the earth [Notice something peculiar. As punishment for building a tower, people on the other side of the world and who were not involved in building the tower lost their language skills.]

Jubilees 10: 24-26-And he confounded their language, and they no longer understood one another's speech, and they ceased then to build the city and the tower. For this reason the whole land of Shinar is called Babel, because the Lord did there confound all the language of the children of men, and from thence they were dispersed into their cities, each according to his language and his nation. [By saying it three times the writer is pretty sure, some limitation in man's capabilities occurred 5000 years ago and it happened to everyone on the earth, not just the tower builders.]

After the devastating war, civilization began again around the world. The pre-Maya built a brand new calendar started on 3114 BC, the Egyptians called the date 3090 BC the Zep-Tepi [beginning time], the Hindu started a new era calling it the Age of Kali about 3104 BC. Some say there is a similarity here. There are many more, but I'm anxious to get to the meat of this particular story and hopefully you have not gotten mad at the background, but it will be needed later.

Phoenicians [7000 -3000BC]

Later this group becomes important, so I might as well introduce them now. Whenever Noah landed and started spreading out, each of the children went a different way. Ham went East, but to go that way his clan hugged the seashore along the Mediterranean and many of his descendents dropped off along the way towards Africa. These people were collectively known as the Canaanites and Philistines. This thin line of people intermarried with the Anak in a substantial way and many of these people were huge humans known as the Anakim or Annunaki, or Lord of Annu, or whatever. Years went by and cities were erected along the coast from Turkey to Africa. One of these people Nimrod, I mentioned already, but in Lebanon, a great plateau [East of Shinar] as was described in the Bible. The citadel of Babel would be built in the land of the Canaanite group that would become the Phoenicians. After the war, many of the Canaanites and Anakim did not travel as far as the “normal people”. When the Hebrews tried to take the land of Canaan, they saw huge Anakim everywhere. The Philistines and Phoenicians are believed to have been the same group even though the Philistines were to the south near Egypt and Phoenicians were north near Turkey, but they were sailors and traders. For a time, they had the most powerful king of all times, but we will get to that later. They would travel all over and bring foreign good to the Mediterranean area. One of the groups of Phoenicians went to Ireland and became the Fomorians. From Irish traditions the Fomorians were “giants” who invaded ships from Africa and all around. The Picts hold about this same group. After thousands of years, the Fomorians were finally driven north to the Hebrides Isles off Scotland and the Tory Island off Ireland. Today they are much shorter and less hostile.

Another of the group of Phoenicians went to Central America. Called the PreMaya, this group built a massive city called the City of Enoch [T-enoch-titlan] and they called themselves the Mexica [Chosen ones]. The city is in bad shape today, but a reconstruction is shown next. The Aztec took control of this city about a thousand years ago so it had been there for a long time. It is believed the initial city was in place before the Tower of Babel War as was others to be discussed.

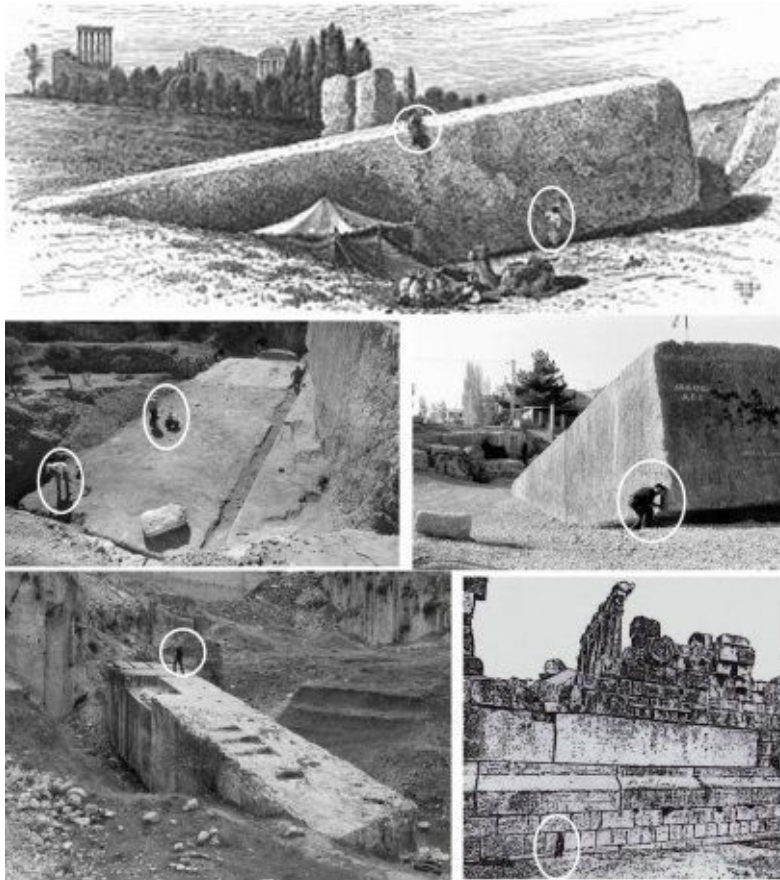

If you remember the Bible, Cain's son was named Enoch and Cain built an entire civilization around him. While that is not the Mexica city of Enoch, the Ancient Phoenicians would have been angered at the idea that the Hebrews were the "chosen ones" of God and taking on this name in the Americas is very understanding.

The rulers had the general physical characteristics of the Anakim as well. Their skin color was reddish, they were tall and they had long heads. It is believed that the original landing was in Brazil and the tribes followed the Andes depositing the Mongulala, the Pre Inca, The PreMaya, and finally the Mexica before mixing with the group that had settled in North America. We'll get back to the Phoenicians later, but right now, let's look at one of the most significant events since the worldwide flood.

Tower of Babel [3500-4000BC]

In order understand just how powerful Nimrod and his armies were, we need to look at the remains of his Citadel in Shinar. The image below shows a tiny bit of information.

The top picture shows the largest quarried stone ever produced for construction and this was done over 5 thousand years ago before cranes. The top picture also shows that this stone has been completely finished so it must have been in place at one time. The citadel is shown at the top of the picture on top of a massive hill. [By the way, the tiny circles are people in the pictures.] Whatever destroyed the citadel threw this stone a long way. The next 3 pictures are of more of these stones that were in the process of being finished for the citadel. The middle right picture does not show a man picking one of these up, he is pretending. The last image is very telling. It shows that the lower 4 levels of the building were made from stones that were only about the size of “normal people”. Then something happened and the building blocks got huge. The next 2 layers show only 5 stones, but they make the man look like an ant. The crumbly mess above that was from the Romans when they tried to reconstruct the Temple of Jupiter on top of this massive work.

Here is a little question. If you made these huge stones would you place them at level 4 of your brickwork or on the lower level? There can be little doubt that some unknown method for lift was used in the olden day of Nimrod and his Anak crew.

Confirmation of The Babel War

While there are many texts that tell us about the Babel War, here is one from the Hebrew Book Jasher that gives us a pretty good picture of how the violence escalated.

Jasher 11:2-7

And the sons of Noah began to war on each other, to take captive and to slay each other, and to shed the blood of men on the earth, and to eat blood, and to build strong cities, and walls, and towers, and individuals began to exalt themselves above the nation, and to found the beginnings of kingdoms, and to go to war people against people, and nation against nation, and city against city, and all began to do evil, and to acquire arms, and to teach their sons war, and they began to capture cities, and to sell male and female slaves-- and they began to make graven images and unclean simulacra, and malignant spirits assisted and seduced them into committing transgression and uncleanness. And the prince Mastema [Prince of the Earth or Satan] exerted himself to do all this, and he sent forth other spirits, those which were put under his hand, to do all manner of wrong and sin, and all manner of transgression, to corrupt and destroy, -for every one turned to do all manner of sin and transgression--.

Jubilees 10:8-9

We find out more about this Mastema guy. What we find out in this very odd is that while Satan was still alive, he could control the Anak, Anakim, and Gentile followers for the purposes of completing his control over mankind. In this section, he bargains with God to allow 10 percent of his followers who had died to stay as DEMONS to help instigate discomfort for the . One of the things he pushed was a massive war. Many other texts attest to just how much power Satan had. Here the demons helps insight people to a horrible war.

Jubilees 10- When Mastema, the leader of the spirits, came, he said: “Lord creator, leave some of them before me; let them listen to me and do everything that I tell them, because if none of them is left for me I shall not be able to exercise the authority of my will among mankind. For they are meant for the purposes of destroying and misleading before my punishment because the evil of mankind is great.” Then he said that a tenth of them should be left before him, while he would make nine parts descend to the place of judgment.”

From India

Most of the ancient libraries of the world were destroyed by those fearing that the information provided could jeopardize how they wanted the past to be remembered. The Library in Alexandria, for instance held many texts we will never be able to read and the Spanish monks destroyed the libraries of the heathen Maya and Inca to preserve their ignorance, but, somehow, some of the texts from India survived. One of the histories was written down in the Mahabharata.

The Mahabharata was a collection of stories that told about this horrible era. The book is huge and is split into a number of Parvas. Just about everyone of them tell about war machines, weapons and destruction from this time period. Here are a few examples.

Odyoga Parva

The Odyoga Parva mentions many of the bizarre weapons of the time. One was known as prasvapana and was able to elicit an instant sleep at the opponent. The second was prabodha and this was used to wake everyone up. Another was a powerful brahmastra, which burned everything and immediately caused strong winds and clouds, which created the extreme temperature and threatened infestation around the world.

Drona Parva

The Drona Parva is also full of references that describe strong weapons capable of Global destruction.

Vana Parva

Vanaparvan text specifically deals with the weapons of the pasupata, which is able to destroy the entire planet, but it was a prohibited weapon. The text also mentions the use of terrible weapons called agneya, which was been declared as inefficient in comparison with brahmastrou. When this weapon was used, it destroyed all living things in its epicenter. According to the text it matched the power and heat of a thousand suns. The sky would become clouded by dust and strong gusty winds. The trees were burned and the noise scared the people even at long distances. The consequences of the use of these deadly weapons were also described in the Udyoga Parva. The soldiers, who were hit were blinded and lost the sense of smell. Throughout their body burns appeared. The sky seemed to be covered with white dust. I know this sounds like radioactive fallout and you are wondering just how that could be, but what we find around the world tells us of some pretty awful weapons being used. From the Bible, we know the Tower of Babel had something to do with the war, so let's look at it a minute.

Babel War in India [3500-3000BC]

The British came along and timed the Aryan Invasion as being a 1500 BC event. This allowed them to describe reasons for their control of India and why the Aryans should always control the area. The problem is that Aryans were not white and the Massive war associated with the Indian Invasion happened much earlier in time. In fact, the war is not only described in the Rig Veda as having happened around 3200BCm but also many, many other descriptions affirm this much earlier date. The massive loss of life and properties is best shown in a place known as Mohen-jo-Daro [Mound of the Dead]. There we find dozens of skeletal remains of the inhabitants that simply died on the spot and globs of glass are strewn everywhere that used to be clay pots. The skeletons are still radioactive after all this time and the walls of the city have been vitrified [melted]. Researchers have found many cities similar to this one in the region showing just how deadly the Arya people or [metal men] were during this time. The following picture shows just some of the many skeletons that lined the once thriving business center.

The globs to the left used to be clay pots, now turned into glass. The bodies shown were still radioactive.

Hindu literature talks about elephants bursting into flames and mushroom clouds over the impacts of deadly weapons. The Arya drove out the Dravidians from this fertile area and they seemed to be mean. Following this horrible war, the Scythians started building up their lands by being somewhat mean themselves. This is important because the Scythians were the main people associated with the Gauls who eventually will civilize Ireland, Scotland [sort of], and England. By the way, the city had covered sewer lines, cross-sectional roadway, many public works buildings and all the things of a modern city before the destruction.

Timing the War

Sometimes called the Bharata War, the Babel War is critically timed by the Maya, Egyptians, Hindu and astrophysics as described below.

- Before 2500 BC- according to Palermo Stone from the 5th dynasty Egypt
- 3000 BC- according to Dr. B.N. Narahari Achar planetary software and astronomical references in Mahabharata
- 3066 BC- according to Dr. D. Abhyankar subtracting 38 war years of Mahabharata
- 3067 BC- from Planetary software and description in the Raghavan
- 3090 BC- Median date for Egyptian Zep Tepi
- 3100 BC- according to Dr. N.S. Rajaram (astronomical statement and interpolated passages of Mahabharata)
- 3100 BC according to the reunification of the upper and lower Egypt
- 3104 BC- according to the start of the Age of Kali [Hindu beginning]
- 3114 BC– according to the start of the Mayan Calendar
- 3127 BC- according to the Aihole Inscription of 7th century AD Egypt)
- 3143 BC - according to Shri P.V. Holey Astronomical measurements of Mahabharata)
- 3400 BC- Mongulala historical reference-end of the Blood Age [Brazil]

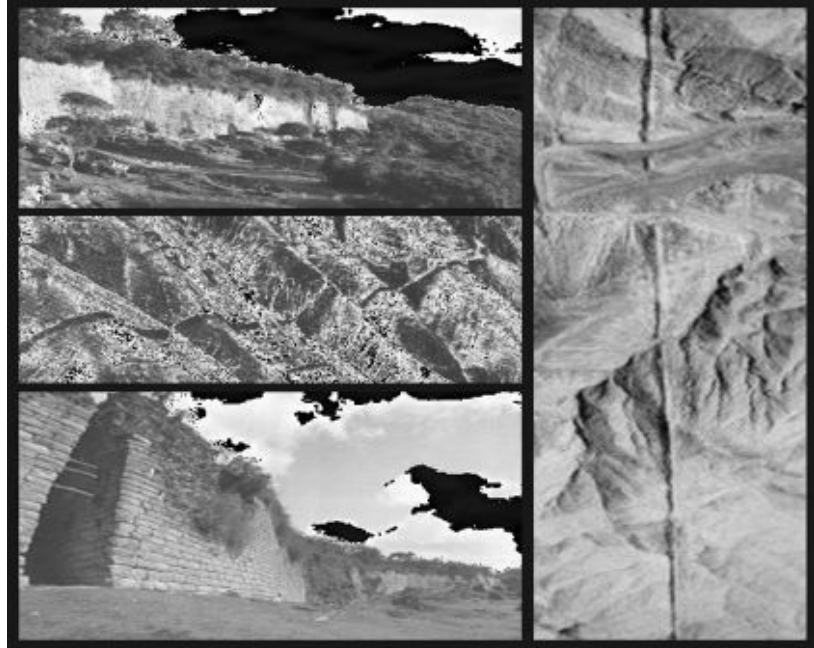

You can use any of these but do not use 1500BC and do not think that they Aryans were the master white race. Arya [metal colored men]were either copper-red or the color of rusted Iron red. The story was twisted by the British and continued by the Germans as attempts to show superiority and the right to control the land. There is no excuse for an American lie. Especially knowing that the war was not contained in the Middle East.

War in America

Don't even believe this war was focused on India or even the Eurasian area. The same destruction has been found in the Americas. The PreInca culture had been here since before the worldwide flood.

Unbelievable structures were built. Use of electricity, electroplating, running water, mica insulated buildings, flying carts. You name it and the PreInca enjoyed it. But the war would not stay away. They quickly constructed a huge wall over the top of the Andes Mountains. An impossible task today, this may have been child's play for the PreInca. The map shows this massive construction. While it looks like the Great Wall of China, it's on top of the Andes Mountains. The preInca were terribly worried and fortified their land with "The Great Wall of Peru". Additional images are shown on the following page of this fortress that was not even found until 1931. These massive ruins run for over 50 miles long and are between 12 and 15 feet wide and 15 feet high. Forts along its perimeter also show that the Peruvians were getting ready for some massive assault.

When it came, it appears that the preInca were quickly forced to leave they dwellings and go underground.

Puma Punka Destruction

The huge citadel at Puma Punka was impossible to destroy, but somehow it was. Each of the huge 100 to 400 tons blocks was reinforced with massive metal staples that would survive anything. The walls were tightly fit together just like the other constructions of these incredible people. All types of almost impossible to create dovetailed blocks fit together in the citadel consisting of a palace, a huge temple and various other buildings to support them. The temple alone consists of a stone terrace that is 168 meters by 117 meters. Around this were water conduits, pool-like features, revetments, terraces, residential compounds, and widespread gravel pavements, so we are talking about a massive place. Whatever the weapon was, the building and even the base of the building did not survive 3100BC. Early estimates of the size of the community were drastically in error, but satellite imagery from late 20 century shows there were well over half a million and as many as 1.5 million residents. We can believe that many of the 1.5 Million residents of Tiahuanaco [Tiwanaku] were killed.

The last picture is of the largest of the building stones which weigh over 440

Ugha Mongulala Story

This is the last example before flying back to Europe, but the civilization in Brazil somehow knew about the massive destruction to come and went underground right away. Luck for us, some of the details were captured and stored. The traditions of the ancient Brazilian tribe, Ugha Mongulala, provide us with a fairly good representation of what we have been saying about the ancient pyramid building and living underground during the War years. Here are excerpts of their traditions according to researcher Karl Bruggar who interviewed one of the Mongulala extensively in 1972 named Tatunca Nara's who was one of the chiefs of the tribe, but had a white missionary mother. This historical description spans the War before the worldwide flood, the flood itself, and the war we are calling the Babel war, so it puts in perspective.

Golden Age

The Golden Age [time before 10500BC] was a time when the gods still ruled over a vast empire on Earth. The Former Masters from the Golden Age had great wisdom. [The 12 thousand year date is very interesting to us in that the Biblical book of Jasher and others tell us the world was at war, Venus was also in the war and was destroyed. Plato and many ancient texts told us that Island nations were flooded at this time and tens of thousands of craters along the East coast of the United States fell during that time and evidence shows that the earth axis shifted. All this eventually led to the worldwide flood of Noah 9 thousand years ago. Let's see what happened in Brazil and Peru.] The gods taught us the secret of man, animals, and plants. [Genetic manipulation was known prior to the Babel War.]

Blood Age

The Blood Age was the beginning of the Mongulala history. It started immediately after the Golden Age. [This Age of blood was reported to be between 10500BC and 3500BC after the Golden Age. It seems to be talking about the huge wars before recorded history. These wars ended around the time of the Babel War. Evidently, this was the time when the world was governed by ANAK demigods.]

There was an island in the west and a gigantic mass of land in the northern part of the ocean. Both lands were buried under an enormous tidal wave during the first Great Catastrophe. It occurred towards the end of the war between the two divine races. [This could be a reference to an Island cultural center. This time it would be in the Atlantic as "The" Ocean for Brazil is the Atlantic. Plato called the place Atlantis.]

The war between the two divine races did not only lay waste to the earth, but also to the worlds of Mars and Venus. [As we can determine from substantial evidence, Venus was destroyed around 12 thousand years ago.]

The secret documents are kept in the underground Great Temple of the Sun. The documents testify to the 12,000 years of history and are kept in a room which is hewn out of the rock. Here also are the mysterious drawings of our Ancient Fathers. The documents are also engraved in green and blue on a material unknown to us. Neither water nor fire can destroy it. [We can believe that if 12 thousand years of history are stored there, the secret underground vault was set up around the time of the Babel War.]

How Everything is Made

Documents were left by the gods, which have remained hidden. They tell about the matter from which everything is made. They tell about the course of the stars and the relationships in nature. The ancient priests explored the spiritual forces of man. Our priests have learned how to make objects fly through space They learned how to open the body of the sick without touching it. They had ships faster than birds' flight, ships that reached their goal without sails or oars. [Details of scientific research from before the Tower of Babel time was astounding.]

They know how to transfer thought without words over the greatest distances. [This method of speaking, it is believed, was prevalent up until the time of the Tower of Babel incident as was reported in our Bible and around the world.]

How Baalbek Was Erected

By magic, the ancient ones suspended the heaviest stones, flung lighting and melted rocks. These strangers built three great cities of stone called: Akanis, Akakor, and Akahim. The city of Akakor was built up the Purus River in a valley of mountains between Brazil and Peru. "The whole city was surrounded by a high stone wall with thirteen gates. [We can believe that the 12 pyramids that are still extant were in the ancient city of Akakor.] He said there were another 26 stone cities around Akakor, ...all these (cities) were completely destroyed in the first great catastrophe.

There are also underground cities inside the mountains we call the Andes. Tunnels link "lower Akakor" with the underground cities. These tunnels are large enough to accommodate for five men walking upright and they are so extensive that it takes many days to reach one of the other cities. These underground cities were artificially illuminated by vertical shafts that ascended up to the surface where an enormous silver mirror dispersed light over the whole city. [Clearly, the underground cities were made for long duration inhabitation and protection from the various wars.]

"The Gods [These would have been the ANAK]ruled from Akakor. They ruled over men and the earth. The tunnels and subterranean cities were built by them. The underground dwellings were the most wonderful of all. And they were given to the Mongulala. [This means that the underground dwellings would have been built and used AFTER the flood of Noah and Mongulala could have used them for protection during the Babel Wars.]

Tatunca Nara's Review

*In year zero there was some kind of "War between the Gods." This war was horrible and devastating. Afterwards a global catastrophe ensued. In the year 13 the course of the rivers was altered. In the west, giant mountains surged up. All this would be known as the "First Great Catastrophe." [This sounds like the ruins from the antediluvian War 12 thousand years ago.]

After the Flood

After this first Great Catastrophe, the empire was in ruins. Many of the underground passages that linked the borders of the empire were blocked; the mysterious light that illuminated the subterranean dwellings was extinguished and twenty-six cities were destroyed by a tremendous flood including Salazere, Tiahunanaco, and Manoa. [This sounds like the Flood of Noah.]

This would NOT be the last. In 3400 BC a second catastrophe occurred. This catastrophe ended the "Years of Blood" - the 6000 years of barbarism that had ravaged the land since the First Catastrophe. Just after this 2nd catastrophe, the Gods returned to Akakor, but only a few. [Tower of Babel War]

Before they left, in 3056 BC, the king gods Lhasa went west and Samon commanded the construction of a great city at the mouth of the Amazon River named, Ofir. Ofir became a powerful seaport. Soon, Ofir became one of the wealthiest cities of the empire but repeated attacks, by eastern civilizations destroyed its greatness.

One thousand years after Samon and Lhasa's departure, the western empire disintegrated. The savage tribes of the East had succeeded in conquering Ofir and burned it to the ground. Subsequently, "the Ugha Mongulala yielded the Atlantic provinces in the east and withdrew into the interior of the country.

Tatunca Nara finished his story by indicating 2470 BC the Inca founder of legend; Viracocha, who was an Ugha Mongulala who had been banished from the tribe, founded the Inca dynasty and built Cuzco.

Because of the large amount of detail about war that has been confirmed by other sources, we can believe that the 12 pyramids were also 12 bomb shelters. We can also believe that there are underground cities beneath the pyramid city. That being said, the greatness of this civilization never regained its level of importance, so let's see what happened in Scotland.

Scotland Goes Underground

Scotland would not be resettled for another 2500 years after the Babel War, but it had a rich history before that time. One may never know exactly who settled prehistoric Scotland, but we have found substantial evidence of the rich history. Once city names Ness of Brodgar is located in Stenness in Orkney, Scotland, which separates the salt water Stenness Loch from the fresh water Harray Loch. Excavation of the 6-acre village began in 2003 and only 10% of the area has been excavated so far as shown in the following collage.

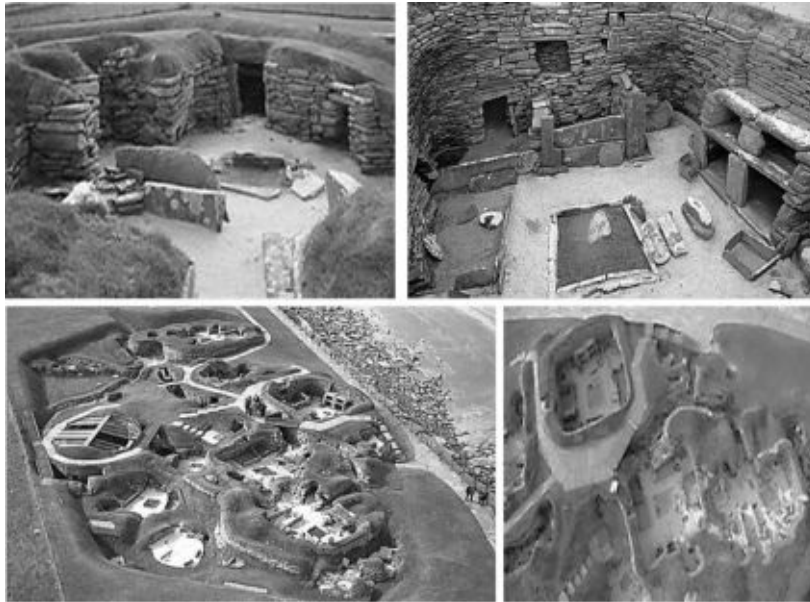

The very center of the village has been worked on first the top picture shows the limits as light colored areas with the 5 buildings in the center shown in the other pictures.

Well-made walls and integrated furniture made this place modern looking and being underground allowed its safety in 3500BC when it was inhabited [during or towards the end of the Babel War. Less than one mile the Ring of Brodgar stands a huge ring of monoliths understood as having served in rituals concerning the dead and the afterlife. To the south, less than one mile away are the Standing Stones of Stenness, so this place was significant during the war. On the surface, a look at the fort walls shows many were vitrified [melted] from some massive heat. Like much of the populations of the world, this group would have lived in fear. It is not known if these were “normal” people or Anakim, but the homes are small so we can assume some ancient tribe made it here after the great flood.

Nearby is still another underground village known as Skara Brae. As shown below this village was a well-designed fishing village where homes had built in furniture and central hearths. Money items have also been found showing a fairly high level of civilization. Skara was inhabited around the end of the Babel War [3100BC].

Safety Underground

If you lived above ground, you were toast. I literally mean toast! Well! People began building towns underground just like they did in Scotland or they began moving around like the Scythians. While there are new underground cities found every year, here are just a few to show how bad the war was.

You would think Scotland would have been out of the way, but they are finding surface forts with melted/ vitrified walls from the massive heat of whatever was used in the ancient battles. In Turkey they are finding huge cities underground. One goes down 26 stories and held tens of thousands of people and livestock. It was the same around the world so don't think that only the Middle East was at war. Some try to tell you living in a hole where you are trapped is safe, but it is only safe from nuclear weapons and fallout. Normal raiders could easily wait out underground dwellers.

Spain

As the birth place of the Gauls who eventually settled Ireland, Spain has a special place. Next are images of an underground dwelling from ancient Spain. Smooth walls describe the capabilities of those dwelling underground. Even a drilled hole [pictures 5 and 6] show this ancient group had a technology many ignore. The last thing to notice is that the shoes of the people tell us 2 things [the last 2 pictures]. The group was civilized [wearing shoes] and they were huge. There is no doubt that this group of “pre-Gaelic people were from the ANAK clan as we will describe in more detail later. Even as large as they were, they cowered in fear under the earth for a time.

Finally the War was over. India was controlled by the Arya [Anakim]; Egypt was controlled by the Khemetian [Anakim]; the Babylonians were ruled over by Nimrodian [Anakim]; the PreMaya, PreInca, pre-Aztec, Pre-Olmec, and the Ugha Mongulala of Brazil were all ruled over by demigod[Anakim]; and the Greek city-statettes began forming the stories of the Anak and Anakim to be later Mythology histories. The new world was not nearly as advanced and wonderful. Some societies were pushed back into an almost Stone Age existence.

Egypt 3150 BC

While the Scythians were building an empire, a country known as Khemet or Egypt was Trying to recover from the Tower of Babel Wars as well. Narmer became the first Pharaoh of Egypt after the war, but the thing to note about the 1st dynasty is that it coincides with something they called Zep-Tepi the new beginning. The thing to realize about this time is that apparently the end of a massive war involving something we call the Tower of Babel happened at this same time. Whatever happened at this 1st dynasty is not completely known, but for all reasonable assignments we can call this time Zero. A more precise time from Egyptian literature is 3150BC. We are told that Nimrod, the “hero” of the Babel Wars went back to Babylon and later became deified as [Baal] after the war. The Jewish King PELEG is also noted here in that his name means “world divided” or “world at war”. The book of Jasher indicates 1/3 of the world’s population died in the war with another 1/3 of the population suffering tremendously as they became like animals.

The Giant Narmer

A stone image of Narmer, also known as Menes was found to have had him fighting his own race of people and dinosaurs. As shown below, people using boats for travel in Egypt was also noted.

On the front side of the palette, just under the king's name, is a scene depicting Narmer wearing the Red Crown of Lower Egypt. He holds a mace in his left hand, while in his right he holds a type of flail. A procession is approaching, on the right of the scene, ten decapitated corpses who lie on the ground with their heads tossed between their legs. On the other side are 2 long necked dinosaurs that some have indicated were upper and lower regions of Egypt, but they look more like dinosaurs to me. These just add to the mystery. There is no doubt that Narmer was depicted as a huge and Some type of flying object was also depicted as shown below. On the other side, right image, he is shown with a long head as will be discussed later as well. The image of the eagle yanking on the nose of a guy with a long beard seems odd as well, but not discussed in this history.

By 2550 BC, we are now in the 4th Dynasty and the depiction of the ruler [King Mimi] shows 2 things. He was huge and he was grabbing the breast of Sabu believed to be his wife, just like modern photograph shenanigans, but taking a lot longer. This also depicts a couple that is neither Semitic nor Black.

Scythian Meanness

While I'm bringing everyone up to a single time, let's get back to the Scythians. We'll be coming back to the Egyptians soon enough. You have heard bad things about them I'm sure, so I thought it would be good to clarify some of the testimony.

Women in War

The act of war was one in which the Scythian women were said to have participated in equally with the men and Scythian women were tattooed like their mates. The ancient historian Diordorus commented that Scythian women “fight like the men and are nowise inferior to them in bravery”. It was recorded that Scythians had a quaint custom. The women had to kill three enemies in battle before marrying, and many times, a mastectomy of the right breast was performed on female infants so that their pectoral muscle wouldn't weaken and they would be able to brandish a sword better! This also seemed to help with a bow.

In War

The Scythians would drink from skulls of their defeated enemies. They "fought to live and lived to fight" and "drank the blood of their enemies and used the scalps as napkins" Scythians had a reputation for their archery talents, and many became mercenaries. Scythians also had a reputation for the use of barbed and poisoned arrows, so try not to be hit by one. Their entire life seemed to revolve around their horses. They even fed from horse-blood, according to Herodotus' "History".

Herodotus also told us that the "Scythians, blinded all their slaves, to use them in preparing their milk. They would thrust bone tubes up the vulva of the mare and blow to push out the nipples for milking. The slaves stirred the milk and the part that rose to the top was determined to be the best."

The Scythian soldier also would drink the blood of the first man he overthrew in battle. Whatever number he slayed, he would cut off all their heads, and carry them to the king; since he was entitled to a share of the booty depending on how many heads he took. These heads also had a use. The soldier would cut round the head above the ears, and, laying hold of the scalp, he would shake the skull out. The skull was scraped clean and then they would be hung from his bridle. The skin was used as napkins and cloaks. Sometimes they would flay the right arms of their dead enemies, and make quivers from the skin. Many times the skulls were used as drinking cups.

I hope that clears up your misconceptions so you can hold your heritage proudly as we look at something called cannabis.

Cannabis

People always find out how to get high. Cannabis was an integral part of the Scythian cult of the dead. After the death and burial of their king, the Scythians would purify themselves by setting up small tepee-like structures which they would enter to inhale the fumes of hemp seeds thrown onto red-hot stones. Some believe, if no one was dead, the people would pretend there was a death.

Partholan [2500-2100BC]

One of Magog's other sons was named Fathochta. This line is important in that these guys mixed with the Syrians [descendents of Shem that had also had relations with the Anak.] As we travel down the timeline (5th generation from Scythes 25th century BC). Fathochta died at the hands of his son.

The Second Traveler

His son was named Partholon. He wasn't considered an honorable man. He sailed to Ireland with his family and between 1000 and 5000 followers after he had killed his mother and father and stole a large number of some ships. He lost one of his eyes while killing his dad. As far as we know there was no contact of Partholon's group and Bith's descendants, but who knows? In some histories, he is noted as being the father of the Beaker People of Scotland that inhabited the land prior to the time of other Celtic emigration.

Partholon and his followers arrived on the ALMOST uninhabited island about 500 years after the great Babel War and we are told something about how they got there. They sailed to Ireland by way of Gothia, Anatolia, Greece, Sicily and Iberia, finally landing at Inber Scéne. With Partholon were his family and something like a thousand followers. The trip was also described as taking about 7 years. Generally speaking, they all died from plague except for one man named Tuan Mac Cairill [Partholon's nephew]

Fomorian [3000-1300BC]

What I meant by ALMOST uninhabited is sort of a strange one. Some of the histories also tell us that well before he died, Partholon battled the Fomorian people. It was around the third year of his occupation of Ireland. Lucky for Partholon, he defeated Ciocal, the leader of the Fomorians in the Battle of Mag Itha. This was no easy task. The Fomorians were a group of demigods or Anakim living in Ireland. One story has them coming from North Africa and somehow being associated with Noah's son Ham. However they got there, they were in control. As I mentioned earlier, these guys would have been very closely related to the Phoenicians. We can assume this group was similar to the Egyptian Anakim rulers, except there were no people to lead and when the people got there, the Fomorians had no leader like Thoth to bring everyone together. They were dysfunctional at best.

I know you would think with all the knowledge, massive size, and capabilities of the Anakim, no one could defeat them, but throughout history we see it over and over again. These guys wanted to be worshipped more than work. Therefore, they allowed themselves to grow weak. Even in a weakened state they were formidable, but, at least, they were beatable.

The Fomorians have been known by all sorts of things. One interesting name was the Cornwall Giants. In fact, Cornwall itself is known as the land of Giants. As found in many of the giant skulls found in North America, the Fomorians of Cornwall had 6 toes and fingers. In general, they were considered nasty. These bullies would cut off the noses of would not pay them the tribute they required. For the Partholonians and our next group the Nemedians this was 2/3 off all their crops. It is not known if the heavy tax or anger at someone's nose being cut off caused the Scythian travelers to fight back, but the Fomorians were pushed aside many times.

Being Anakim, they were giants and they would have known substantial magical things which would have made it harder to kill them. Just because they had been defeated didn't mean they would not be back as our next adventurer will see.

Nemedius [2100 – 1800 BC]

Later (9th generation from Scythes 22th century BC) another along that same line, Nemedius/Nemed came across the land to Ireland. It is believed Nemedius had something to do with the beginnings of the Druid culture there as he was sort of a priest. Nemedius was the great grandson of Partholon's brother Tait. He would become the 2nd Scythian discoverer of Ireland. He arrived thirty to a hundred years after Partholon's people had been wiped out by the plague. He had a number of ships, but all were destroyed except for his. On board his ship were his wife Macha, his four sons and their wives, and twenty other people. Luckily it didn't take him as long as Paratholon. It only took a year and a half of wandering before they eventually landed in Ireland. They were not greeted with open arms.

Fomorians Again

The Fomorians met the new visitors and they were still mad at the last batch of invaders. After three great battles, Nemed defeated them and built himself a strong fort in South Armagh. Like many of the others, Nemed, eventually, died from the plague and the Fomorians returned and imposed heavy taxes on his survivors. Like I said; you can't get rid of them. After a while, the survivors of Nemed's original people decided they had had enough of the Fomorian's oppression and they staged a revolt. They put up a good fight but they were eventually over-powered by the "evil" Fomorians. One ship managed to escape from Ireland with a crew of thirty warriors on board, but the others numbering about 9 thousand died.

The Fomorians took over Ireland for a time and many of the Partholon's and Nemedians returned to Greece and other areas in Europe. They learned about agriculture and metal working and returned. Later we will find that they are still on the Island when the next 2 groups try to take control of Ireland. Some define the Fomorians as Phoenicians. This is a possibility in that Phoenicia was certainly controlled by the Anak. In fact, later we will find out the biggest of all the Anak once ruled them.

Fir Bolg [1800-1500 BC]

According to tradition the descendents of these survivors came back to Ireland. A grandson of Nemed named Semeon, settled down and his descendents went back and called themselves the FirBolg. Another grandson, Beothach, fathered the race that would become the Tuatha De Danann. Still another one of his descendents named Fearghus Leathdearg, went to Britain and fathered the race that would later be known as the Britonic people.

The origin of the name of the Fir Bolg [Men with Spears] is not known. One legend has it that the Fir Bolg were enslaved by their fellow Scythians or Greeks. They could not endure it and finally a large group stole some ships and set sail with 5000. It is believed that the leaders names were Slainge, Rudraige, Genann, Gann, and Sengann and they were brothers. They landed at the Hill of Tara and brought a political structure, administration and a kingdom along with bronze-age technology.

Fomorians Again

Like those before them, they fought off persistent raids by the Fomorians for about 40 years before the next group would invade. Bravery was not enough though. The Fir Bolg were finally defeated at the Battle of Moytura but not before they impressed the new rulers of Ireland with their fierce courage and honor. The country was divided again with the western part of the country, Connaught Province, being assigned to the Fir Bolg.

Tuaath De Danann [1500-1300BC]

While there is a trail of these guys from the Scythians, they also were considered a race of supernaturally-gifted people in Irish History/mythology [at least after they stayed with the Fomorians for a long time.]. Many became kings on their own, but it is acknowledged that some were once worshipped as gods. Goibniu, Credne and Luchta, for instance, were of the Tuaath clan and referred to as the three gods of craftsmanship. Ancient writings tell us they gained their magical capabilities while in Ireland and living with the Fomorian. They were also very daring. They had fled originally from the territory of Greece, where they had been residing away from the oppression of invading bands of Syrians that had pushed north into Scythia. They first migrated to the region of Norway, dwelling there for a time in four cities, then passed on to northern Scotland, then on to Ireland.

Fighting the FirBolg

When they arrived in ships on the coast near Connemara, they immediately burnt the ships "so that they would not think of retreating to them" as they went to face their relatives who were called the Fir Bolg. Led by their king, Nuada, they fought the First Battle of Magh Tuireadh on the west coast, and they defeated and the now native Fir Bolg, who had been their for some time hiding from the Fomorian. In the battle, Nuada lost an arm so he was replaced as king by the half-Fomorian Bres, who turned out to be a tyrant. The Fir Borg were never to be in control again.

Medical Science

Luckily, they had a good doctor on the Island. named Dian Cecht who replaced Nuada's arm with a working silver one and he was reinstated as king. This made Bres mad so he got the Fomorians together and there was a second Battle of Magh Tuireadh against the Fomorians. Nuada was killed by the Fomorian king Balor's poisonous eye, so Lugh, of the Danann, killed Balor and took over as King. They maintained the sovereignty for about 200 years.

Here is the rule of thumb. Stay away from poisonous eyes and try to find this doctor Cecht. Both could be important. With all of this going on, it is time to get back to Scythia as Scythe's son Baath, stayed true to the Scythian culture.

Baath and Feinus [2000-1700BC]

Ok! That was the background needed to understand the Scythian invaders. The last would be the most important one. As we get back to Baath. He had a son named Feinus Farsaidh. This guy became the great King of Scythia who ruled around 20th century BC. The picture below shows the general land occupied by this mighty group during the time of Feinus.

Portions of the Scythian nations helped the Persians from time to time. The Persians were controlled by the Arya or Anakim. They had done the damage in India and they still had a powerful society a thousand years after the Babel Wars and Aryan Invasion. As I mentioned earlier, the British redated the Rig Veda to an absurd date of 1500 BC so it looked like they should control India, but there was no truth in their dating and the war mentioned occurred around 3300BC as is evident from the drying of the river beds mentioned in the story itself. Therefore, do not be fooled by such clamor. That being said, the Scythians began to get more civilized. Feinus Farsaidh found that he had to incorporate regions rather than conquer them. People simply didn't like to be conquered. To incorporate, one must understand the language of those taken into the flock, so to speak. This is where an important traveler named Naille comes in, but let's first look at some DNA science.

DNA Science

A 2009 Study of 26 ancient human specimens from the Krasnoyarsk area in Siberia, dated from between the middle of the 2nd millennium BC and the 4th century AD, showed that the Scythians were "large blue or green eyed, fair-skinned and light-haired people who were genetically most closely related to modern populations of eastern Europe". Nearly all subjects belong to haplogroup R-M17. As one would imagine DNA has now given us a clear picture that the Scythians were the principle ancestors of the Slavs. The map below shows the highest concentrations of the R1 haplogroup and thereby showing relative infusion of Scythian bloodlines.

The dark shaded areas on the map show R1 variants. There is almost none in Africa Northern Russia or the East, but look at the intrusion into India as the Scythian Aryan relatives fight in the Babel War against the Indian population. While there was little in Africa, what was called lower Egypt and the Phoenician lands of Carthage both show intermingling as we will see with the details of the Scythian march to Ireland.

The next map shows it even clearer as the R1 M17 [the dark areas] lineage of direct Scythian populations show a massive intrusion into India while, at the same time, they pushed northwest towards Germany, Scandinavia and France..

So the Scythians and the Arya were in cahoots 5 thousand years ago, but by this time, Baath was trying to cut his ties to the Arya. When I say Arya or Aryan, I really mean those who had mostly Anakim heritage. They would have been very tall, have a long thin head shape, be very light skinned, but reddish in hue and they would have been looking for people to worship them as gods. A few stayed in India; a few went to Greece; others went to various parts of the world always looking to be worshipped. Naille was getting out and going to Egypt. The time is around 1600BC.

Naille and Hyksos [1650-1550BC]

As part of Farsaidh holding control of major lands, he sent his son Naille [which means “man who knows languages”] to Egypt, the most powerful nation in the nearby world, to negotiate peace treaties and trade and to gain more understanding about the Egyptian custom and language. This was especially important in that this is around the time of the great drought of Egypt that affected the entire region including Scythia. According to Irish historians, the Hyksos king [this means Foreign King] whose name is unknown was so impressed with him that he gave Naille one of his daughters to marry and seal a union between the two nations. Assuming this is all true, their union now produced offspring that were from the lineage of the Hyksos who are now known to have been Amalekites.

This means that the Irish people built from this line would be from the lineage of Japheth [Scythian], Ham [Syrian and Amalekite], along with the Anakim [Theban Egyptians and others].

Scota Number I

History did not record Naille's wife's Egyptian name. The Greek name of this princess was Scota [Greek for "Mystery woman". Most likely, it simply met "Wife of the Scythian". We do not know what her real name was. This first Scota is not the one that finally conquers Ireland, but it is a good start at pulling out some of the savage nature of the Scythians. By many texts she was Hyksos and would have been darker Olive colored with almost black hair instead of the very white Scythian color with reddish hair. Naille would have been in Egypt sometime in the 15 dynasty so we are talking about 17th century BC.

We find at least 2 Scotas near the same time so you can give her some Egyptian name, or even a Hebrew name as she probably had both of those as well. By more than one account, the wife given to Naille was the daughter of one of the Hyksos Hebrew Kings. And the king also gave Naille some prime land to live on. It is believed the group stayed a number of years as the devastating drought that was predicted by Joseph took control of the lands. The pharaohs of the land welcomed his assistance and he flourished in their community teaching them the ways of their neighbors so that they could better understand them. As refugees came into the land, it is quite possible, Naille and his translating capability, helped in the distribution of food for money and for this "favor" he was given land and a wife. It is believed that Naille came during the reign of the greatest of all Hyksos rulers who name was Cincris or "Achencres" who was from the 15th Dynasty. Cincris granted to Naille an estate at Pi-Hahiroth and gave him his daughter, Scota, to wed. While there is no Cincris listed anywhere, he was believed to have ruled from the city of Avaris in the Nile Delta from around the time of Naille Khyan, who was called the "Great Hyksos". It is possible that "Cincris" is a variant of "Cian Groi" [Khyan the Great].

Khyan's Scota Daughter

Let's say he gave Naille one of his family members. There is no record of him having a daughter, but he did have a son Yanassi who would have been in line to be Pharaoh. Instead his successor Apepi took the Throne. We can believe that Apepi was Khyan's grandson and one of his 2 sisters, Tani and Ziwat would have been the first Scota list in the ancient histories. I'm going with Tani as her name seems to go with Naille.

Pharaoh Khyan ruled for 40 years during the 15th dynasty has been confirmed by new archaeological finds at Edfu. Unlike later Hebrews, Khyan did worship one god, but it was the God called Set [the red haired God]. This is odd in that the Anakim had reddish hair.

Naille and Tani would have lived a very comfortable life for awhile. Naille son and the Scythian followers would have all stayed and intermarried for a time.

Gadel and Scota [1600-1500BC]

As a note. Some histories claim that Naille's son was given "Scota" rather than him. Both Naille and Gadel, his son were gifted translators, so you can either choose whichever one you like or choose both as I believe both were given wives for their very important service. Both were in Egypt and both would have been honored. Gadel/ Gaedheal/Gael/ Goadhal/ Goidel/ GoidelGlas/ Gathelus or Gaythelos the son of Naille/Niul and Princess Scota [or princesses Scota], were born in Egypt, generally around the time when Moses began to act as leader of the children of Israel. These were the leaders from which the Gaelic people descended. It is highly probable that some of the Gaels took Hebrew wives and some took the Khemetian/Egyptian wives. By the way, don't ask me why no one can keep the same spelling for a person.

Moses Exodus

We are pretty sure that soon after Moses left the country, the Scythians were evicted as well, so some historians believe that Gadel must have gotten a wife from the Hyksos Pharaoh Apepi. He was the last great Hyksos ruler and Hyksos were driven from the throne after him by Ahmoses. Apepi would have ruled about 1550 BC and during the time when many believe Moses performed his magic and then he disappeared as Moses and the Jews left Egypt. Some believe, Apepi was at the bottom of the Red Sea..

Khyan's Scots Daughter

Let's say he gave Gadel his daughter, Herit. She was daughter of the most important king of the 16th Dynasty, so this gift was significant. We find that Gadel helped Apepi, battle Ethiopians in the Upper kingdom with great success, so the marriage would make sense as well. In the book "Scotichronicon", Gadel sailed across the Mediterranean to help the Pharaoh drive the Ethiopians out of his lands. The Ethiopians had a powerful kingdom to the south and at various times had ruled parts of Egypt. Gadel joined his army with that of the Hyksos Pharaoh during the fight, and together they pushed the Ethiopians out of Egypt for a time. At the end of these hostilities, Gadel formed another alliance with the pharaoh to help keep the Children of Israel in bondage.

As Moses worked his magic, Apepi would have gotten madder and madder. He would have known that the end of the Hyksos rule was at stake. Finally, as the Hebrews left he or his Khemetian counterpart would have followed and drown in the Red Sea. The new King would have been furious with the ones who had been helping the Hebrew and married a Hebrew and would have forced their expulsion. Ahmoses took control as the Hyksos Dynasty closed and the New Intermediate dynasty took control around 1650BC and ships with Scythians, with Hebrew, and Egyptians wives left as quickly as they could get away. Naille and his Scots along with Gadel and his Scots would have been among those leaving. A general timeline of the Egyptian kings and possible Scythian leaders that were in charge when at the various times is provided on the next page so that you will not be too confused with all these Scots. In the next image, we see Scots (left) with Goídel Glas [Gadel] voyaging from Egypt, as depicted in a 15th-century manuscript of the Scotichronicon. In this version Scots and Goídel Glas (Latinized as Gaythelos) are wife and husband.

While the descriptions of Scota were carried in the verbal histories, she or they were not depicted in historical print until 11th century, in the Irish chronicle Book of Leinster [12th century] and Historia Brittonum in the 11th century. Both state that Scota was the daughter of an Egyptian Hyksos pharaoh, a contemporary of Moses, who married Gadel and together became the founders of Scots and Gaels after being exiled from Egypt. Most talk about Gadel as son of Naille, these 2 claim Gadel was a king of one of the Greek city-states rather than being full Scythian. Take your pick!

Jewish Exodus and the Hyksos

Some may say, there is no way that King Khyan and Apepi would have been kings during the oppression of the Jews which had Apepi dying in the Red Sea and Gadel escaping as the Hebrew left Egypt. There is so much mix up about this time and the incidents that can tell us when the Exodus happened, its not even funny. Some of the ancient Jewish texts put the Exodus King as the son of Pepi II [2250BC]. Others claim that Atenahken [1335BC] was king during the Exodus. Still another claims Khyan was the king [1600BC]. Dates for the Exodus range from 1200BC to 1700BC. The most verified is 1560BC when the Hyksos rule ended.

Then there is the question about why would a Hyksos King drown himself in the Red Sea and allow the Hebrews to be enslaved during his reign. That all being said. Ancient Irish historical records claim that either Naille, Gadel, or Mille were present during the Exodus, that at least one was given a Hyksos Wife and Gadel and Mille both had to get out of dodge quickly. The last bit of issue was that each of the Scythian heroes were given the same wife named Scota.

What we are told from Egyptian writings is that Apepi was the last great Hyksos ruler. There was another that lasted a few years, but he was insignificant and was king as Ahmoses drove the Hyksos out of the country. After Apepi disappeared, Ahmoses eliminated the Hyksos and reestablished the sole worship of the gods of Osiris. Soon Amenhotep came along and changed the worship to Aten [a single god]. By the time King Tutenkomen came along, everyone wanted to go back to the old ways so he didn't live long, even with the most beautiful woman around, Nefertiti. To show you how bad it was let be show you an image of this beautiful woman. After weeks of mastering the smile and the look and the beauty. The artisan was not EVEN allowed to finish the eye. That is how hated these worshippers of Aten were. If one of our Gauls [Mille] had come back to Egypt and was being helped by King Tut, he had better get out of town fast and there would be a huge reason for a princess of royal blood to go with him that had nothing to do with Jews leaving.

With that being said, let me clear up a little about the huge misconception of Jewish slavery.

Jews Were Not Slaves

Oh Boy! I can tell you are mad. While the Jews were not slaves in the strictest sense they were enslaved by their folly and mistreated for many years. For this we need to look at the sacred book of Jasher. What we find is that the Jews were tricking into servitude. While the verses do not give the precise details it sounds like it was a get rich quick deal. Maybe it was something like stocks and bonds. All of a sudden, the stocks were worthless and the Jews had no way to pay. Greed had enslaved them. We know this is so as the texts also says the Levi group were not fooled so they were never enslaved. The only reason the Egyptians would not enslave the Levis was that they had not bought into the get rich quick deal. Here is an excerpt from Jasher Chapter 65.

Jasher65: 2-6- And the counselors and elders of Egypt spoke unto the king, saying,- Behold the people of the children of Israel is greater and mightier than we are, and thou knowest all the evil which they did to us in the road when we returned from battle.-- Now therefore give us counsel what to do with them, until we gradually destroy them from amongst us, lest they become too numerous for us in the land. [We never find out about this treachery from this ancient Jewish text.] -- For if the children of Israel should increase in the land, they will become an obstacle to us, and if any war should happen to take place, they with their great strength will join our enemy against us, and fight against us, destroy us from the land and go away from it.*

The king [some believe to be Apepi, but I will go with Khyan as the timing works better] comes up with a plan to keep the Jews from becoming a forceful enemy.

16-21 And all the servants went away from the king, and they caused a proclamation to be made in all Egypt, in Tachpanches and in Goshen, and in all the cities which surrounded Egypt, saying, You have seen what the children of Esau and Ishmael did to us, who came to war against us and wished to destroy us. Now therefore the king commanded us to fortify the land, to build the cities Pithom and Rameses, and to fortify them for battle, if they should again come against us. Whosoever of you from all Egypt and from the children of Israel will come to build with us, he shall have his daily wages given by the king, as his command is unto us. And when Egypt and all the children of Israel heard all that the servants of Pharaoh had spoken, there came from the Egyptians, and the children of Israel to build with the servants of Pharaoh, Pithom and Rameses, but none of the children of Levi came with their brethren to build. [This is the* first sign that the Jews were getting dooped. The Levi would not buy into the scheme. I'm certain they tried to tell the others, but they would not listen.]

24-29 And Israel went on with the work at that time, but they then received their daily hire, because some of the men of Egypt were yet carrying on the work with Israel at that time; therefore the Egyptians gave Israel their hire in those days, in order that they, the Egyptians their fellow-workmen, might also take the pay for their labor.<sup>25</sup> And at the end of a year and four months all the Egyptians had withdrawn from the children of Israel, so that the children of Israel were left alone engaged in the work.<sup>26</sup> And after all the Egyptians had withdrawn from the children of Israel they returned and became oppressors and officers over them, and some of them stood over the children of Israel as task masters, to receive from them all that they gave them for the pay of their labor.-- And when some of the men of Israel refused to work on account of the wages not being given to them, then the exactors and the servants of Pharaoh oppressed them and smote them with heavy blows, and made them return by force, to labor with their brethren; thus did all the Egyptians unto the children of Israel all the days.

32-34 But the children of Levi were not employed in the work with their brethren of Israel, from the beginning unto the day of their going forth from Egypt. For all the children of Levi knew that the Egyptians had spoken all these words with deceit to the Israelites, therefore the children of Levi refrained from approaching to the work with their brethren. And the Egyptians did not direct their attention to make the children of Levi work afterward, since they had not been with their brethren at the beginning, therefore the Egyptians left them alone. [No Levi was enslaved according to this Jewish text. I was not slavery, but, instead was a scam which impoverished the Jews with no way of repayment.]

Backfire

The whole reason for the scheme was to keep the number of Jewish children down, but it completely backfired. The Egyptians finally began drowning the babies in the Nile. Moses slips away and the rest is well known.

38 And all the work wherein the Egyptians made the children of Israel labor, they exacted with rigor, in order to afflict the children of Israel, but the more they afflicted them, the more they increased and grew, and the Egyptians were grieved because of the children of Israel.

Why Hyksos Were Mean

Now for the hard question. If Khyan and Apepi were both Hyksos [Foreign Semitic Kings], how could they enslave their own people???? Something must be wrong!!! There is no question that the first Egyptian kings were VERY friendly to the Jews. King Joseph gave them the land of Goshen and the Jews became extremely wealthy. Images show the Jews as wealth traders during this time. [See Below]

Jewish Servitude Only a Few Years

The next question was how long the Jews and the Hyksos were in Egypt. Some have told you 430 years, but that it not stated anywhere. Let's look and get first hand information.

Galatians 3:17, the apostle Paul stated that the Law of Moses came 430 years after God had made His covenant with Abraham. However,

Exodus 12:40-41- Moses stated "the children of Israel dwelt in Egypt [the land controlled by Egypt] 430 years.

Genesis 15:13 Moses said "the Israelites would be "sojourners in a land that is not theirs" for "400 years,"

Well meaning people decide it said the Jews were in Egypt 400 years When Abraham was in Egyptian land for 100 years, his son and his sons son similar times so the entire time in Egypt was much shorter and the time in "bondage" [trying to pay off an intolerable debt] was only a few of those years. OK it was long enough for the King to realize his plan didn't work and time enough for Moses to grow to adulthood so we are talking about 70 years at least.

Apepi and Khyan

Together these Hyksos rulers ruled for 80 years. If we say the Jews were in Goshen for 220 years and Apepi died as the Jews escaped that would mean Joseph came to power about 120 years before “Khyan the Great”. This would put him as the Regent King during the 13 Dynasty, possibly with Amenemhet VI. There would have been about 10 generations between Joseph and those leaving the country during the Exodus and with the tribe doubling in size every 12 year or so, there would have been 750 thousand Jews ready to leave whenever Gadel and his father left the country.

Bad Hyksos

Some histories claim that Apepi was a usurper of Hyksos power [possibly not even Jewish]. As I stated before, Khyan had 2 granddaughters and if someone wanted to usurp the best way would be to marry one of the daughters. History claims the 2 as his sisters which would make sense as well. So Apepi might have been a non-Jew beginning to take the control away from the Jews, initially Gadel might have helped him and won his favor which resulted in his marriage. As a usurper, he would have tried to gain favor with the Theban King and helped instigate the bondage of the Jews. When Moses came back to Egypt, the king he talked to had Jewish magicians Jannes and Jambres perform the same “tricks” as Moses. It seems more likely that Jewish magicians would be used by the Hyksos rather than the Theban king. So Apepi, again fits the bill,

Some histories claim Gadel crossed the king and helped the Hebrews. This would have been known by both kings, so everyone would have been mad at Gadel. When the Jews left, the Theban king would have forced the Hyksos ruler to leave and the whole group of Scythians that would become Gaul under Gadel.

The images following are from 16 century graves so we can assume that the bondage happened before 1500BC which also places the time right for Apepi being lost in the middle of the Red Sea as Charlton Hesston, I mean Moses, lowers his staff.

Naille and Gadel Flee Egypt

Hopefully that little tirade helps you understand some of the questions about all of this. It is not completely understood exactly why Gadel, Naille, and Scota or dual Scota fled, but it would have had something to do with the Exodus of the Jews and the turmoil from that event. It is believed that Apepi drowned in the Red Sea with his hosts of 120 thousand footmen and fifty thousand horsemen as the Hyksos reign simply fell apart after him. If Scota was a Jewish Princess, she may not have been welcome after thousands died at the hands of the Jewish God. Notice I could not reconcile having only one Scota for 2 different heroes, so I had 2. It was in recognition of Gadel's loyalty, bravery, and strength that Gadel was given his daughter Scota in marriage. Evidently, Gadel went back on his word and began helping the Hebrews leave. The people of Egypt were looking for reform and saw the death of the pharaoh as their opportunity to make changes and civil unrest, drove the Scythians into exile. This is similar to the history I have presented.

Wanderings

Whatever the reason, one day they began gathering together, took supplies and ships, and they fled Egypt. They didn't exactly know where to go so they embarked upon a long odyssey that, over the succeeding generations, would take them from Egypt, first to Candia [ancient Crete], then back to their ancestral homeland of Scythia, then to sail the Caspian Sea for several years, then to Getulia [ancient Libya with the Phoenicians], then to Galicia [the Iberian Peninsula]. Naille died somewhere along the way by many texts and Gadel was proclaimed as their king. Instead of Gaels, some texts claim they called themselves the "Scots" after their queen Scota. For this history, let's call them the Gaels like most people.

Once they got to the Iberian Peninsula (present-day Spain and Portugal). There, they settled in the northwest corner of the peninsula and the families spread out and took control of the land. They became great herdsman and took control of most of Western Europe. This does not mean it was always easy. While in Spain, records indicate, Gadel and his Army fought 54 battles in Spain to secure it for their people.

Mille [1400-1300BC]

From Gadel we can trace the following: Deag King of Gothia, his son Brath King of Gothia (who left Gothia with a large band of his people and settled in Galicia, Spain), his son Breoghan King of Galicia, Andalusia, Murcia, Castile, and Portugal, his son Bile King of Galicia, Andalusia, Murcia, Castile, and Portugal, and his son Galamh (also known as Milesius or Mille of Spain). Mille became King of Galicia, Andalusia, Murcia, Castile, and Portugal.

"Mille or Milesius, having secured and extended the land of the Gauls by many victories and the conquests of his predecessors, he made peace with his enemies. During this peace, he left part of the colony to guard the new kingdom that was controlled by his father Bille, and Mille embarked with the remainder of the Army for Scythia, where he was honorably received by King Riffloir.

Milesius became his first minister and general. In this capacity Milesius defeated a lot of the king's enemies, gained much fame, and the love of all the king's subjects. The king gave Mille his daughter Seaug in marriage and they had 2 children [Don and Aldrich] before Seaug died. His growing greatness and popularity got the king mad who decided he should do away with this upstart.

Plan Backfires

Milesius heard about the plan and killed the king. Looking at what he had done, Mille decided he should get out of there and he sailed back to another one of Gadel's stomping grounds; Egypt. He took with him 60 ships full of soldiers.

The Third Scota

Some sources say that this Scota was the daughter of Pharaoh Neferhotep I of Egypt [around 1700BC] and his wife Senebsen, Writing in 1571AD, Edmund Campion named the Pharaoh Amenophis [About 1380BC; Keating named Pharaoh Cincris [that I timed to be the 1st Scota around 1550BC]. Another suggested it was Thutmosis IV the son of Amenophis II of the XVIIIth Dynasty. Thutmosis IV [King Tut] reigned about 1415BC. According to Bower's manuscript, Scota's father was named Achencres, a Greek version of an Egyptian name. In the work of Manetho, an Egyptian priest who wrote in Greek, the pharaoh Achencres works out to be none other than Akhenaton [around 1360BC]. In still another history this Scota is the daughter of Nectonibus [about 800BC].

We'll get back to Scota in a minute, but when Mille got to Egypt, the Pharaoh, whoever it was welcomed him and Mille helped him with his enemies which finally had the pharaoh giving a daughter to him in marriage. Guess what historians called her? Yep! She was the third Scota. After marriage, he stayed about 8 years and learned as much about the magic and science that he could before going back to Gaul and be king as his father Bille had died by this time.

Ankhesenamun or Meritanten

From evidence found in Ireland recently, it is believed that Scota number 3 was either Ankhesenamun or Meritaten, her big sister. Both were daughters of Akhenaton and Nefertiti. Ankhesenamun was married to him Tutenkamen when he was about 9 years old and she was about 12 while Meritaten was married to her father for a short time after Nefertiti died when he was about 14. Anyway, trading wives and similar things was common in those days so Mille could very well have been given one of these women. Both were of the royal line, both would have had the well known long head of the Anakim heritage, and both would have had a Reddish complexion for the same reason as we will get to soon. The images following show the beautiful Caucasian featured, reddish skinned, long headed, Ankhesenamun.

Following are some images of her sister Meritaten. Both were really pretty. Both red skinned, and both had a long head like their mother Nefertiti. This showed that she was, at least part Anakim and definitely not black as have been presented by some.

Why Did They Leave?

I went over this a little, but many in the priesthood hated Akhenaten and his one God religion and continuously tried to extinguish it. When Akhenaten's reign ended, so did the religion. Murals were struck down, the palace was moved, the significance of the Akhenaton's reign was pushed away. It would make sense that anyone who had befriended and married into the family would have been expelled as Akhenaten's reign ended and he disappeared from history. This conflict and the rumored deaths by plague would have been sufficient motivation for the pharaoh's eldest daughter to become a "foreigners" wife. Not only would it be safer, but it would also allow for an eventual escape. This actually is one of the things that points to these two as the most probable Scota number three.

The New Religion

Known before as Amenhotep IV, King Tut's dad changed his name to Akhenaten to reflect his close link with the new supreme deity. This was not the same as the previous Hyksos rulers who named SET as the one true God. It is believed that this one was the same as the Hebrews. The Egyptian name was Aten. Akhenaten was married to Queen Nefertiti, one of the most famous and beautiful of all ancient Egyptian women. Nefertiti was one of the most influential queens. Paintings show her conducting religious ceremonies with Akhenaten as an equal, but here's the rub. Nefertiti's mummy was not found until very recently. Archaeologist June Fletcher claimed she found Nefertiti's badly-mutilated mummy in a side chamber of the Tomb of Amenhotep II in the Valley of the Kings. Many scholars are not convinced. Akhenaten elevated Nefertiti to divine status and scholars suggest that she may have been only 12 when married to Akhenaten. After the downfall of Akhenaten's new one god religion, bad things happened. Princess Meritaten became married to Smenkhkare for a short time, but that didn't stop Akhenaten so it is believed that When King Tut took control, Meritaten was given to Mille to halt the royal line as insurrection was looming and Smenkhkare had to step down as he was not of the same belief.

Smenkhkare had become a co-ruler and finally tried to take the country as Akhenaten's one God was quickly replaced with the old gods as King Tut had his untimely death. No one really knows why he died at 19. Some say he stepped too close to a hippopotamus; another says Malaria killed him. Still another says he fell off a Chariot. In my opinion, this would have signaled Mille to get out of town. After just one year of rule Smenkhkare was dead, or deposed as well. All of a sudden, Meritaten had disappeared. It is highly likely she disappeared in a ship headed for Spain carrying something called the Stone of Destiny. Don't feel sad for her, she would have been glad to go and Mille was a good guy; just ask the Irish historians.

DNA of King Tutankhamun [1320 BC]

For some reason, modern Egyptians don't seem to want to associate with the ancient Red race and the Caucasians. Despite the refusal of the Secretary General of the Egyptian Supreme Council of Antiquities, Zahi Hawass, to release any DNA results which might indicate the racial ancestry of Pharaoh Tutankhamun; the leaked results reveal that King Tut's DNA is a 99.6 percent match with Western European Y chromosomes. Strangely, it had the closest comparison with the people of Ireland, Scotland, western England and the European Atlantic seaboard, so let's get to know him a little.

Meritaten and her mother, sister, and father all were Anakim [Part Anak and part "normal human"] according to physical evidence, but there is little doubt of intermarriage during the time of Naille and Gadel. The reddish, lightly wavy, hair was one of the give aways. Many of the Rulers of the Egyptians were descendents of the Anakim giants. Some were not huge, but the first descendents certainly were.

Anakim Giants

I could provide you with all types of information about the so-called gods of the lands or the Anak people. They had not only become the rulers of Egypt, but also they were the rulers of Canaan and Phoenicia. After the Exodus of the Jews from Egypt, they were told to take the land away from the giants, but they were too afraid. Those sent to scout the area said normal people were like grasshoppers to the Canaanites. To get up their nerve, the Jews wandered for 40 years in the desert before coming back and destroying many of the Anak and Anakim people of that region. There were so many of these Anakim giants that the Bible has a large number of subsets of giants listed throughout the entire Old Testament. They were called Nephelim, Anak, Anakim, Avvim, Horites, Uzim, Avvim, Rephaim, Emim, and Zamzummim. The Emim [dreadful ones] lived in the area of Moab; the Zamzummim and Uzim, lived in the area of Ammon, east of Jordan. There were Horites in the Mount Seir region. In southern Palestine were the Anakim, centering around Hebron, and the Avvim, near Gaza. Rephaim [terrible giants] was perhaps a collective name for all these Anak [Long Headed giants] or Anakim [Sons of the Anak] people East of the Jordan, in Bashan, Og, king of Bashan, and his people constituted a remnant of the Rephaim. Somewhere in central Canaan, west of Jordan, there was a land of the Rephaim. Near Jerusalem there was a Valley of the Rephaim. In Turkey a huge femur bone attested to their size. From the Minoic people we find most indications of giant rulers. The 3 axes would be difficult for a “normal sized” human to wield. [I told you about these guys earlier.]

Nefertiti and Amenhotep IV shown on the image below show a couple of things. They seem to be inordinately large compared to their children and they had noticeably long heads. Meritaten [Scota III] is the one being held by her dad while her sisters are on Nefertiti, the queen.

There are many other examples, but I think a short trip to the Bible will help here.

Bible Giant Anakim

In the Bible we can find a large amount of stories regarding the Anakim and their "degenerated" offspring called the children of Anak, Emims and other names. For instance in The Bible we can read about king Og (the Giant) :

Deuteronomy:3:11- For only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of giants; behold his bedstead was a bedstead of iron; is it not in Rabbath of the children of Ammon? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man. [King Og was a "small" Giant because he needed a length of his bed of 4 meters. As mentioned above the Giant Anakim were the offspring of the Giant Nephilim from before the Flood.]

Deuteronomy1:28- Whither shall we go up? our brethren have discouraged our heart, saying, The people is greater and taller than we; the cities are great and walled up to heaven; and moreover we have seen the sons of the Anakims there.

Deuteronomy 2:10: The Emims dwelt therein in times past, a people great, and many, and tall, as the Anakims; Dt:2:11: Which also were accounted giants, as the Anakims; but the Moabites called them Emims.

Deuteronomy 2:21: A people great, and many, and tall, as the Anakims; but the Lord destroyed them before them; and they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead.

Deuteronomy 9:2: A people great and tall, the children of the Anakims, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the children of Anak!

Joshua11:21: And at that time came Joshua, and cut off the Anakims from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel: Joshua destroyed them utterly with their cities. Jos:11:22: There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Israel: only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Ashdod, there remained.

Joshua14:12: Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the Lord spoke in that day; for thou heardest in that day how the Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced: if so be the Lord will be with me, then I shall be able to drive them out, as the Lord said.

Joshua14:15: And the name of Hebron before was Kirjatharba; which Arba was a great man among the Anakims. And the land had rest from war.

Numbers13:32: And they brought up an evil report of the land which they had searched unto the children of Israel, saying, The land, through which we have gone to search it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and all the people that we saw in it are men of a great stature.

Numbers13:33: And there we saw the giants, the sons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight.

Deuteronomy2:20: That also was accounted a land of giants: giants dwelt therein in old time; and the Ammonites call them Zamzummims;

Deuteronomy2:21: A people great, and many, and tall, as the Anakims; but the Lord destroyed them before them; and they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead:

Deuteronomy2:22: As he did to the children of Esau, which dwelt in Seir, when he destroyed the Horims from before them; and they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead even unto this day:

On and on we could go. The main thing here is that the Giant Anakim made it past the worldwide flood and many settled in the Mediterranean Sea Areas like Egypt and the Middle East. Several define Anakim as the ruling race of the Philistine who became known as the Phoenicians later. Below is just a couple of the records.

Philistine Anakim

1 Chronicles 20: 4-8 And it came to pass after this, that there arose war at GEZER with the Philistines; at which time Sibbechai the Hushathite slew SIPPAI, that was of the children of the GIANT: and they were subdued. And there was war again with the Philistines.

2 Samuel 21:15-22 - The Philistine giants whom David encountered were descendants of the Anakim.

This will be important later. Let's look at the mummies of the Egyptian rulers for other signs.

Caucasian Mummies of Egypt

The myths and legends of ancient times describe the rule of Osiris and Isis in an interesting way. “The Mighty Osiris and Isis walked into the Egyptian Valley out of nowhere and assumed command. They were taller and more imposing than the men of the time, with long blond hair, marble-like skin and remarkable powers that enabled miracles”. I know that sounds odd. If all the theories of the ancient black race melding with the Semitic race to form the Egyptians was true, there is some mistake. This sound more like giant Caucasians. All we need to do to clear this up is to look at mummies.

Princess Sitamun and Queen Tiye [1350BC]

A Caucasian beauty, below is the mummy case of Princess Sitamun, daughter of Amenhotep III [1350BC] and Queen Tiye, and very probably the mother of King Tutankhamun.

Ahmoses and Nefratari 1560BC

Nefratari (complete with overbite) also with an ornately braided hair. It seems to be interwoven with braided extensions, and the slight piece of her own scalp hair that can be seen seems very slightly curly naturally.

Sitkamos and Amose II 1560BC

Below is Ahmoses I and his father, Tao to the left. Both had slightly wavy hair of a Caucasian. By the way, I am not saying these rulers were white skinned. We will look at that later. Right now, we are looking at their hair and facial characteristics that certainly look European not African.

Thutmosis II [1500 BC]

Thutmosis II husband of Hatshepsut, again has almost straight hair and strong jawed Caucasian features. His comb over hair shows a level of vanity.

Queen Hatshepsut 1530BC

While I will identify a difference in these people, that would become the Scottish nation, from the common Caucasians of today, let's first look at the similarity of differences between the ancient Khemetian kings and the others of that time. The next one is Queen, wife of Pharaoh Thutmosis II. She ruled Egypt after Thutmosis' death in 1520 BC. Her long, fine, wavy hair and facial structure has been well preserved by the embalming process of the time. American Egyptologist Donald P. Ryan excavated her tomb, in the Valley of the Kings, during the course of 1989. He described something interesting. "The mummy was mostly unwrapped and on its back. Strands of reddish-blond hair lay on the floor beneath the head." Her image is shown next. She was not black and she was not olive skinned Semitic.

Thutmosis III and IV [1450BC]

Thutmosis II is shown first not so much for showing the hair, but something else we will talk about; a long skull. Beside him is Thutmosis IV, very fine light wavy hair. It's not seen from this view, but the mummy has a comb over similar to Thutmosis II to hide it's bald crown.

Yuya 1400BC

Yuya was Prime Minister during 1400 BC and father of Tiye. Some try to indicate this guy was one of the Hyksos Semitics of the Bible, but it makes no sense. Yuya's blonde hair and Caucasian facial structure have been well preserved by the embalming process. He was not black or Olive skinned Semitic. He was married to Tjuyu [shown to his right]. She was an Egyptian noblewoman associated with the royal family. She also, had Caucasian features and hair. Their daughter, Tiye, the Great Royal Wife of Amenhotep III must also be of this same oddness. Princess Sitamun was the eldest daughter of Queen Tiye and Pharaoh Amenhotep III, Sitamun was the favorite Daughter of Amenhotep III and one study compared a strand of her reddish hair to a lock of hair found inside a tiny coffin inscribed to Tiye from Tutankhamun's tomb and they matched. This certainly showed how very much this group intermarried.

Yuya's grandmother's mummy, like that of his wife, her high cheekbone and wavy hair, small nose and other features show her background as well. [see right above]

Seti I and Ramesses II[1292–1190 BC]

From the 19th Dynasty, the mummy of Pharaoh Seti I is the most lifelike of the great pharaohs of Egypt, and a tribute to the embalmer's art.

His Caucasian features remain crystal clear and because of the excellent preservation process, Seti's mummy can easily be compared with a relief of his face made in his lifetime at the Temple at Abydos. Seti was the son of the great Ramesses I, and became pharaoh in 1292 BC. He reoccupied lands in Syria lost to earlier Syrian invasions so he would have greatly affected the union recognized by the Scythians and Syrians during the time of Scythes who ruled the Scythian world and was father of the Scottish people.

Ramesses II was Seti I son and they ruled jointly. During this time, the god Set was said to have been red-haired, and redheads were said to worship the god devoutly. The family of Ramesses, believed themselves to be divine descendants of Set, with their red hair as proof of their lineage. We can speculate that Ramesses II descended from a long line of redheads. You can get a pretty good look at Ramesses II hair here. The L'Oreal Institute plucked out one of hairs to examine the roots, and found it to be natural auburn when he was younger as grey hair retains pigment in the roots. He is described as having wavy Caucasian red hair. I think you can see how light his hair was from the picture below.

The mummies and partial mummies below still have sandy colored lightly wavy hair. Both attributes point to Caucasian.

There are several studies of mummy hair, they've all concluded mostly European with some African influence. Even Nubian hair studies seem to be half Eurasian in the North, the same as modern Nubians. The hair differs in the upper and lower Kingdom as well, with the Lower Kingdom [most northern section] showing much less African influence than The Upper Kingdom [most southern section near Nubia], the same as modern Egypt.

20th and 21st Dynasty [1190-1043BC]

There were many kings during this time. A couple of the Ramesses lasted more than a couple years, but in general it was a time of unrest. Scottish historians have Mille and his family coming to Ireland about 1050BC which would have Scots coming from one of these kings. This could make sense as the end of the Anakim rulers was filled by the Nubians and if Mille had gotten his wife, certainly they would have left quickly before the insurrection. That being said, evidence in Scotland does not agree with the ancient Scottish dating, so I'm sticking with King Tut's kids.

22nd -24th Dynasty Nubian Rule [1043 BC]

It wasn't long after Seti's rule ended that an unexplainable thing happened and the Nubians took control of all of Egypt. While you won't hear this from other historians, the 22nd through 24th Dynasties were orchestrated by King Solomon. The Nubians took control while Solomon and his HUGE wealth controlled most of the Middle East. In exchange for the Nubian Gold, Solomon aided the Nubians on their quest to control Lower Egypt. There is little doubt of the difference in the Nubian mummies and the Red haired Khemetian Kings. Here are a few. Shown are the Nubian prince Maiherpri, and the Lady Rai, followed by others with more Afro hair. Maiherpri's hair is actually a naturalistic wig, but her real hair was also similar.

Not Scots

We know that Miles did not get one of the Nubian Princesses as his wife as there is no MtDNA that shows a connection between Irish and the Nubians. And while some histories claim Miles invaded Ireland in 1060BC, it is not likely that this is true as the evidence strongly suggests his invasion was much earlier. With that, let's examine the long headed skulls.

Anakim Heads

Long Headed skulls from around the world seem to agree with the ancient stories of the Anakim. In the Ica Region, on the south coast of Peru, there was an unusual graveyard filled with massive skulls. They appeared deformed in that they were much longer and had more “brain area” than “normal skulls. Samples are shown below.

In that area alone have been found over 300 of these elongated skulls, which are believed to date back over 3,000 years. A DNA analysis has now been conducted on one of the skulls and expert Brien Foerster has released information regarding these Anakim skulls. The cranial volume is up to 25 percent larger and 60 percent heavier than conventional human skulls, meaning they could not have been intentionally deformed through some head flattening technique that has been suggested by some. They also contain only one parietal plate, rather than the normal two. More of the Peruvian ANAKIM along with samples from Russia are shown below.

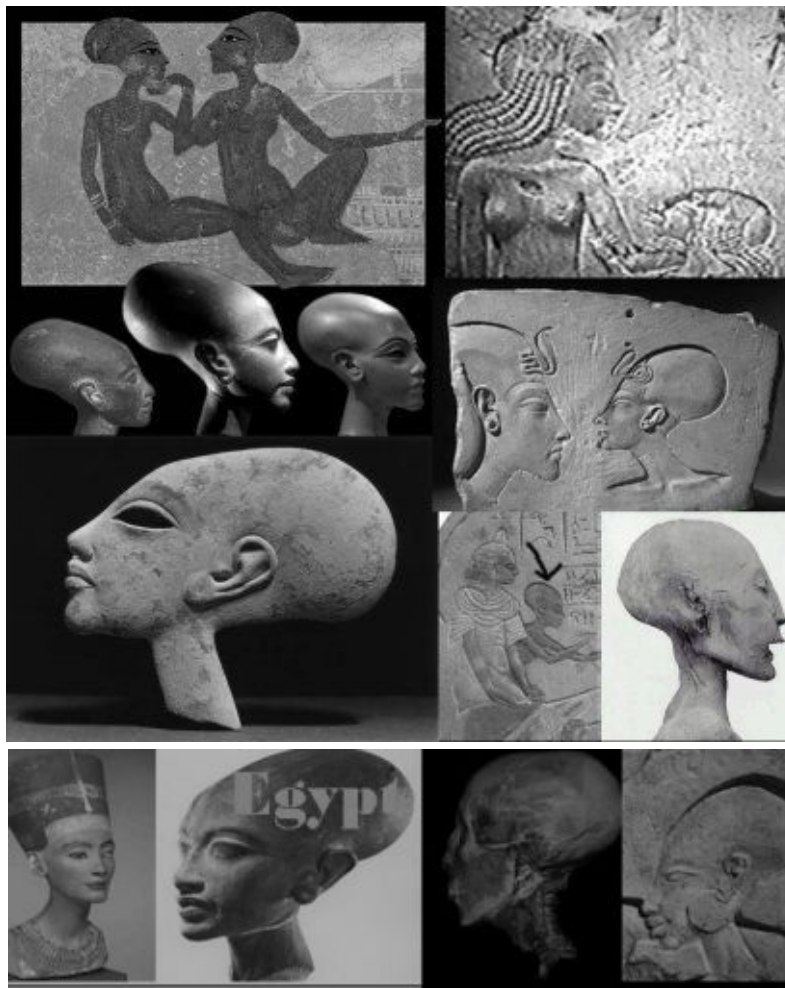

As many as a hundred of similar long skulled giants have been found in North American Graves to add to the list. In SW Asia, some more were found, Australia had some, Ancient people in Cyprus had long heads. France elongated heads were found. The Czech Republic, was another place. On and on we could go. The elongated head characteristic of the Anakim was worldwide. The following collage shows a number of them.

DNA Tests

The samples from 25 skulls consisting of hair, roots, a tooth, skull bone and skin and a geneticist in Texas began DNA testing. The results showed "It had MtDNA (mitochondrial DNA) with mutations unknown in any human, primate, or animal known so far. But a few fragments I was able to sequence from this sample indicate that if these mutations will hold we are dealing with a new human-like creature, very distant from Homo sapiens or Neanderthals."

While the largest selection of these important people to our history were found in Peru, Egypt became a hotspot for finding these long headed skulls. The thing that should be noted is that the ruling class had almost an exclusive lock on this feature. Next are a few of the many found.

Sumerian Annunaki

One of the definitions of Anakim is: Anaqiy, “descendants of the nephil”. Literally it possibly means “long necked “or “long headed”. I mentioned some of the Biblical texts, but here is one from Sumeria. “The Anunnaki came to Earth to do the work for the leader Gods in groups of 200, with a total of 600.” While the ANAK were forced to Earth as they lost entrance into Heaven. Sumerians say almost the same thing for their version of god, demigod or giant ruler.

Some of this long head, Anakim, heritage would have defined the descendents of Mille, who took control of Ireland and Scotland for a time. She would not have been alone as many of Mille’s followers would have either married into this group while in Egypt or they would have been infatuated with the Phoenicians. The skull of Akhenaten is shown below along with his skull with skin over it.. He was definitely related to the Anakim. Nefertiti looked just like him. Some claim both of them, all of their children and most of their relative were simply sick making them have a long head, but the is not much truth in that thinking.

Red Skin

These Egyptian rulers were always painted with red skin. Various texts tell us that the “red skinned” humans went across to and established trade with the rest of the world. The trade umbrella included an outpost along the Mediterranean. They mixed with white skinned people and black skinned people. From their ancient writings it is apparent that several cultural centers in Turkey, Phoenicia, and Egypt were trade outposts for the Atlanteans. [While I’m sure the area where the red race came from was not named Atlantis in the olden days, there is a substantial amount of evidence to give us assurance of the red race from a single location and it would have been a trade center. One of the things we know is that in ancient times, the Phoenicians, Libyans, and Egyptians all called themselves redskins and many of the American Indians still had very reddish skin today.

Red Rulers

The Anak went everywhere on earth. They settled and they took control. The reason we can believe their red skin is because the reddish skin of the American Indians, The Mayan description of Red rulers, and general desire to be red around the world. Like the Germans of our later World Wars the red Anak thought themselves to be a higher class than all the other people. Do not be bothered by the fact that the flood occurred many years after Atlantis sank. This could very well be talking about the worldwide flood itself, the take over of Egypt might have been done over a number of years, or Atlantis only completed its sinking during the worldwide flood. Right now I'm simply trying to show you something about the race of people that made up the Khemetians. Let's read a small segment of the Rig Veda.

Rig Veda

The ancient “Singer” praises the god that destroyed the Dasyan and protected the Aryan color [red or red people actually interpreted “metal” color]. He is the thunderer who bestowed on his friends the fields, the sun, and the waters. The storm god who rushes like furious bulls and scatters the black skin. The “Sacrificer” [Indra, one of the Aryan] poured out thanks to god for “scattering the slave bands of dark decent.” [Some have tried to force the idea that Aryan meant white, but there is no truth in it. Certainly there was an Aryan “invasion of sorts about 6-thousand years ago, but it was of people with the Aryan color. The reference to making the black people subservient certainly shows the black race was not the ruling race during this time as some have put forward. ]

Desire to be Red

One way to understand who the most powerful people of a time were is to see what people wanted to call themselves.

Phoenician-According to tradition, the Phoenician people came from an “Island of fire” located beyond the Indian Ocean. The Phoenician name means red man. Phoenicians are special in that the leader of the Anak race was identified as the King of Tyrus, the main city of the Phoenician lands. The Prince of Tyrus was also depicted as being one of the Anak.

Egyptians- The Egyptians of Khemetians classified 4 groups of people similar to those identified in Indian Literature. The highest level was the “Rot” or red group and wrote about it on tomb walls.

Arabs- The RED guys must have also ruled the various Arab groups. The “Himyaritic” Arabs were the “Red” Arabs. They were painted as being red on Egyptian monuments, so they were both honored and red.

Ethiopians- You guessed it Ethiopians jumped on the “want-to-be Red” bandwagon. Their name is taken from the word meaning sunburnt or red. Unfortunately, this seems to only have been a strong desire rather than fact.

Libyans- The ancient Libyans were called the Maxyans [interpreted as very red] by Herodotus. They would frequently go so far as painting their entire body red to appear more like their ancestors.

Algerians- The Algerian people called the Zuavas painted themselves red like the Libyans for a similar reason.

Americans- Many of the inhabitants of the Americas were and still continue to have reddish skin tone.

PreMaya- 2 of the 4 gods of the Maya were declared to be red skinned and stayed to make their civilization great.

You may wonder about this red colored skin. But, look around, there is no question. Ancient rulers were red, many had long heads, and many were huge. The direct descendents of Adam were NOT. With that let me get back to Mille as he has a country to found.

Mille & Phoenicians

So Scota was part Anakim at least and Mille was Scythian and Hyksos. What a pair. “Scota” and Mille sailed to the islands of Irena and Gothia, then back to Galicia with the soldiers he had brought with him. Once Mille had gotten home, the Gauls were harassed by the rebellion of the natives and by the intrusion of other foreign nations. It took him another 54 battles to re-secure the land. For a long time things were great, but we are told that a great famine hit the land and it lasted to some level for 26 years. While he had been in Egypt he was told that his destiny lied to the north and he would not stay in Spain.

Tarshish

I'll bet you thought I had finished with all of the Anakim stuff, but, they were still around. During the first decade or so of Mille's rule, the southern city of Hispainius became the leading town and trade center of Spain. Mille certainly had used this trade center to his advantage. Initially controlled by the Gauls, after some years, the Phoenicians took control of this important port and changed its name to Tarshish. Here is where the Anakim sneak back into the story. Phoenicians were lead by some pretty high up Anak people that we will get to in a minute. Tarshish is noted in the Bible as a huge trading center. Early on, one of Japheth's grandson's who was named Tarshish probably founded the city. This would have been during or at the end of the Babel War [4000-3000 BC]. For a time, we can assume Mille controlled this important port. By the time of Solomon [1100BC] the city had gone back to the Phoenicians and the city was under the control of King Hiran of Tyre. The city is mentioned 24 times in the Bible as it was that important to the region.

King Satan

Here is the interesting part. The King previous to Hiram was identified as King Satan by Ezekiel [Chapter 28]. I'm not saying Ezekiel simply was saying Tyre was an evil city, I'm saying he knew the King to be the ACTUAL Satan [also known as Gadrael when he had been an angel] With the head of the original insurrection, you can believe this town was important to the ANAK. Tyre was a powerful city during the time of Mille and the Phoenicians had taken control of what was known as Carthage during the Roman times on the Northern coast of what is now Libya. Nobody did any sea travel without their knowledge and possibly protection money changed hands. It has been suggested that there were 43 battles by the Gauls to secure the Tarshish [Hispania] city for a time as it was the best trade center or one of the best in the Mediterranean. Below are a couple of the many texts about how powerful the Phoenician rulers were, just in case you think Satan was already dead.

Genesis 10:4 lists among the descendants of Japhet the son of Noah as "The sons of Javan: Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim."

1 Kings 10:22 and 2 Chronicles 9:21----notes that King Solomon had "a fleet of ships of Tarshish" at sea with the fleet of his ally King Hiram of Tyre. And that "Once every three years the fleet of ships of Tarshish used to come bringing gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks."

Enoch 68:6-7 and 69 1-12-- The name of the third [the third trusted of the angels] is Gadrael [who was later known as Satan]: he discovered every stroke of death to the children of men. He Seduced Eve.-- And the third [Archangel] was named Gadrael: he it is who showed the children of men all the blows of death [We know the story, whatever Eve had done to be ashamed of, she hid her genitals under a fig leaf. The book of Enoch says it out right. Satan or one of his kind seduced Eve.]

The mentioning of Solomon is important to our study here. If the Phoenicians had regained control, Mille and many of the Gauls would have already left as is proven by articles found in Ireland recently. Many of the Gauls would have married Phoenician Anakim descendents, and when the city was lost to the Phoenicians, it would have put enough stress on the Gauls to leave.

King of Phoenicia [3000-2000BC]

To understand the Phoenicians and how they fit into this history, the best place to start is the Biblical book of Ezekiel. The ancient city of Tyre was established just after the Babel War [3000BC and a very unusual King lead them.

Ezekiel 28:11-19

Moreover, the word of the LORD came to me: "Son of man, raise a lamentation over the King of Tyre [The most powerful Phoenician in the world], and say to him, Thus says the Lord GOD: "You were the signet of perfection, full of wisdom and perfect in beauty. You were in Eden, the garden of God [While a number of Anak were in the Garden, let's continue]; -On the day that you were created they were prepared. You were an anointed guardian cherub [This defines him as one of the ANAK named Satan]. I placed you; you were on the holy mountain of God; in the midst of the stones of fire you walked. [This is speaking of the preflood war where Massive meteors came down as his fortress on the planet Rahab was destroyed] You were blameless in your ways from the day you were created, till unrighteousness was found in you. In the abundance of your trade you were filled with violence in your midst, and you sinned; so I cast you as a profane thing from the mountain of God, and I destroyed you, O guardian cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire. [God turned him into an Anak human and destroyed all attempts at taking control in Heaven, but on Earth he was thought of as a god.] Your heart was proud because of your beauty; you corrupted your wisdom for the sake of your splendor. I cast you to the ground; I exposed you before kings, to feast their eyes on you. By the multitude of your iniquities, in the unrighteousness of your trade you profaned your sanctuaries; so I brought fire out from your midst; it consumed you, and I turned you to ashes on the earth in the sight of all who saw you. All who know you among the peoples are appalled at you; you have come to a dreadful end and shall be no more forever."

After Satan

That's right! Satan, the leader of the Anak people was King of the Phoenicians. There can be little doubt that many of the Phoenicians were Anak or Anakim [demigods]. Speaking of demigods, let's continue and find that Satan's son was prince while Satan ran things so he probably was king after Satan finally die sometime around 2000BC or so.

Ezekiel 28:1-10

*The word of the LORD came to me: "Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre [This is the son of the most powerful Phoenician in the land], Thus says the Lord GOD: "Because your heart is proud, and you have said, 'I am a god, I sit in the seat of the gods, in the heart of the seas, 'yet you are but a man, and no god, though you make your heart like the heart of a god—you are indeed wiser than Daniel; no secret is hidden from you; [For Ezekiel to say this guy was wiser than Daniel meant he was as wise as Solomon himself.] By your wisdom and your understanding you have made wealth for yourself, and have gathered gold and silver into your treasuries; by your great wisdom in your trade you have increased your wealth, and your heart has become proud in your wealth—[This included the takeover of Tarshish from the Gaels. The verse ends by saying he will not last nor will the Phoenician nation.]

Satan the Phoenician Anak

While Mille was working his magic on the country of the Gauls, The Phoenician Anakim were very important to any trade. There is high probability that there was contact and intermarriage between the 2 groups. The map following shows the Phoenician empire with Tyre and Notice the Phoenicians controlled the bottom of Mille's country for a time. The Phoenician city was named Tarshish according to the Bible. By the time of Solomon, it was controlled by the Phoenicians so Mille's group had moved to Ireland by that time.

If you have Satan in the story, we might as well determine if those horns he was shown with were real.

Horns on Satan

Some picture Gadrael or Satan as having horns. Interestingly, Sumerians depicted all of its demigods or Annunaki as having horns or wearing artificial horns". We can believe Satan did the same thing to show he was a god. So here is a question? Where in the world did they get the idea that a "god" like Satan would have horns? I seems that all gods were seen either wearing or having horns at one time or another. Below is a tiny fraction of the number of horned gods who would have been Satan's minions.

Sumeria

If that wasn't enough proof, look at EVERY single God image in ancient Sumeria and Babylonia had either one set of horns or many. I think we can be sure Satan had horns.

Gaul Conquest of Ireland

Finally, on to the conquest of Ireland, the promised land of the Gaels, under the leadership of the eight sons of Mille and their mother, the third “Scota”. First Mille send his uncle, Ith. Ith, with his son Lughaidh, and one hundred and fifty stout men were sent to bring them an account of the western islands later called Ireland. Right now they were called the Islands of Munster. Ith found that the land was governed by MacCuill and his wife Eire. MacCuill was the last 3 rulers of Tuaath-De-Danann who had taken control around 18 to 19 century BC. Ith found him, talked with him and discussed the settling of the Gauls. Ith believed him to be a wise and knowledgeable ruler.

That was a mistake. No sooner was Ith gone than the king’s brothers; began to reflect on the high commendations which Ithe gave of the Island; and, suspecting his design of bringing others to invade it, resolved to prevent them, and therefore pursued him with a strong party, overtook him, fought and routed his men and wounded Ith to death before his son or the rest of his men left on ship-board could come to his rescue. His son brought his dead and mangled body back into Spain, and there exposed it to public view, and excited his friends and relations to avenge his murder.

Mille's Sons Goes to Ireland

The army left from Spain, but the seas would cause them trouble. From historical records we read that Mille had died and the rule went to his sons who built up an Army and the 8 sons and the son of Ith sailed to the coasts of Ireland [called Inis-Fail]. They could not land and the seas were horrible. It was believed that the Tuatha-de-Danann were controlling the seas with diabolical arts they had obtained from the Fomorians. With this capability, they enchanted the island so as to appear in the form of a Hog. Later the Island would be called "Muc-Inis" or "The Hog Island". Then a huge storm came up and dashed the ships, destroying many along with 5 of the brothers.

The surviving brothers, Heber, Heremon, Ir, and Amergin; also the son of Ith, Heber Donn, overcame the storm. After landing, they quickly gathered their Armies and routed the three Tuatha-de Danann Kings at Slieve-Mis. Then they followed the retreat and fought again at Tailten. All three kings and their queens were killed so that the Armies were utterly destroyed.

The heads of the Gauls, Scots, Heber, Heremon, Amergin, and Heber Donn along with the chief leading men of Mille, divided the kingdom between them. Amergin became their chief Druid, magician, priest or Arch-priest. Together there were 183 new kings of Ireland that would rule in succession for 2,885 years. After that time, Ireland and the descendants of Mille became part of England under King Henry II who was also descended from Heremon through Fergus Mor MacEarca, first King of Scotland.

Ireland's Original Kings

There is a rich heritage from all of this, but it was not to be without problem. Heber and Heremon reigned jointly the first year, but wives got in the way, pride and greed followed. It got so bad that they even fought a battle at Geashill. Unfortunately, Heber was killed by Heremon. Then Amergin and Heremon got mad at each other and fought another battle and Amergin was killed. Heremon was soon, the sole Monarch, and divided up the land again. The south part, now called Munster, he gave to his brother Heber's four sons, Er, Orba, Feron, and Fergna. The north part, now Ulster, he gave to Ithe's only son Heber Donn. The Eastern portion called Leinster was given to Criomthann-sciath-bheil, one of his commanders. [Man these guys did have long names.] The west part, called Connaught was given to Un-Mac-Oigge, another of his commanders. The last part, between Munster and Lughaidh was given to Heber Donn.

Heber, the oldest brother's descendents included 38 of the Monarchs of Ireland, the gentry of Munster, and many noble families in Scotland.

From Ithe, came 26 of the Monarchs of Ireland, the gentry of Ulster, and many noble families in Leinster, Munster, and Connaught, derive their pedigrees. In Scotland, the Clan-na-Rory. Of special note was King Roderick who was monarch of Ireland for 70 years from 288 to 218 BC.

From Heremon, the youngest of the three brothers, were descended 114 of the monarchs of Ireland, the gentry of Leinster, Concaught, Meath, Orgiall, Tirowen, Tirconnell, and Clan-na-boy; the Kings of Dalriada; all the Kings of Scotland from Fergus Mor MacEarea, down to the Stuarts; and the Kings and Queens of England from Henry the Second down to the present time.

After a time the Millisan Kings move over to Scotland, help the Picts settle and later they integrate with the English. Most of that you can get from other histories so let me go back to Scota and see what happened to her and look at the Picts just a little.

What About Scota?

All over the place we find the evidence of Egypt from the time of Scota number 3.

- In Ireland have been found tombs that were built with Egyptian knowledge.
- There was even a mummified head recovered that demonstrated that the Gauls understood something about Egyptian embalming of the dead.

This Scota and her husband were reported to have fled Egypt and eventually to have sailed to Britain, where the wrecks of two Egyptian ships, discovered near Hull in 1937 AD.

- The ships have been radio-carbon-dated to the period 1400 BC to 1350 BC.

In 1955, archaeologists made an interesting discovery during an excavation of the Mound of Hostages at Tara, site of ancient kingship of Ireland. Bronze Age skeletal remains were found of what has been argued to be a young prince, still wearing a rare necklace of faience beads, made from a paste of minerals and plant extracts that had been fired.

- The skeleton was carbon dated between 1400-1300 BC.

In 1956, it was reported that the faience beads were Egyptian:

- “In fact, when they were compared with Egyptian faience beads, they were found to be not only of identical manufacture but also of matching design.
- The famous boy-king Tutankhamun was entombed around the same time as the Tara skeleton and the priceless golden collar around his mummy’s neck was inlaid with matching conical, blue-green faience beads”.
- An almost identical necklace was found in a Bronze Age burial mound at north Molton, Devon.

Scota DNA Evidence

Regardless of these different versions of the legend, there are similarities between them, the most obvious one being the voyage from Iberia to Ireland. In recent years, there have been significant advances in the science of DNA collection and analysis, which have allowed scholars to reevaluate ancient myths and legends. Dr. Bryan Sykes, among others, has specialized in the study of DNA and applied it to the history of the human race.

Dr. Sykes is the Chairman and Professor of Human Genetics at Oxford University in England, and since April 2000, he has utilized his laboratory to explore the genetic roots of the people of the British Isles and Japan. He discovered DNA could be categorized into seven basic groups, and these seven groups he hypothesized to be from seven ancestral women. He calls these women the “Seven Daughters of Eve”: He has named these clan mothers Helena, Tara, Jasmine, Xenia, Velda, Katherine, and Ursula. Sykes found that 95% of Europeans could be traced back to these ancient clan mothers, and through mutations, determined these women lived anywhere from 45,000 to 17,000 years ago.

In tracking the clan mother’s DNA, it was verified that the ancestors of the Irish came from the Iberian Peninsula. There was also a direct correlation of similar DNA among men in Ireland and surveys of Y-chromosomes among the Basques of Northeastern Spain and the people of Galicia in Northwestern Spain and Northern Portugal. The male Y-chromosome evidence found by Sykes also determined that the Irish Gaelic tribes first journeyed to the Argyll area of Scotland. There seems to have been a gradual colonization of the western part of Scotland from the Irish kingdom of Dál Riata during the first half of the first millennium CE, which had a tremendous cultural and political impact. So the kernel of truth in the legends of Scota and the people of her tribe is confirmed by scientific evidence.

Death of Scota

According to several references in medieval Irish history Queen Scota, wife of King Mille and mother of six sons, was killed in battle with the legendary Tuatha-Dé-Danann. She would have been with her children to instruct and comfort them on their journey as her husband Mille had now died. The battle with the Tuatha was on the nearby Slieve Mish Mountain. Scota would also have come to Ireland to avenge the death of her husband. She was described as an accomplished horsewoman. This makes sense with Egyptian nobility, it was believed that she was pregnant with a new heir and she, attempted huge jump a bank. The extra mass of her pregnancy caused her to fall and die.

Soon her will, bravery, and heritage initiated her namesake for Scotland. Scota also had a son named Hyber; it is said the old name for Ireland, "Hibernia," comes from this son.

Scota is buried on the sloped mountains in view of Tralee Bay at a place called Glenscoheen (Scota's Glenn). The site is an area just south of Tralee in County Kerry beside the Finglas rivulet in an area known as Trughanacmy. It marks what is reputed to be the grave of Scota, a daughter of an Egyptian pharaoh. Her grave is shown even today where she was buried near the sea. The site of her burial is shown below.

Scottish Berserkers

Briefly let's fill in a few more holes. From Ireland it was a short hop across the water as later Iberian "Egyptians" seeking a new homeland in Ireland were told to populate Scotland. This colony became so successful that eventually many of the original Irish "Scots" then moved across too. After some fighting, the entire Scottish area seems to have been disorganized until reestablished by the proto-Celtics [1200BC] Vikings [700BC], then the Irish[400BC], the Normans[100BC] and finally an attempt by the Romans [100AD] to civilize people called Picts [Painted people]. These people were nuts!!!!

The Picts would come out painted blue and kill everyone they could. The Romans called them Berserkers. Tattooed all over their bodies, Men and women would fight alongside. A few images are shown next. It appears cutting off heads was a favorite passed time.

With that I must end this book.

Conclusions

Hopefully this nonlinear trek through time has not been too confusion. Some try to feed history in a straight line, but true details get lost. Hopefully you are better informed now than before. Some of the key elements to remember are those following.

- Earth is not as old as you were told.
- Dinosaurs and people lived together for a time.
- Then a heaven war destroyed everything.
- The Anak became people as a result of the war.
- Soon Homo Erectus was created
- He was a hairy man so the Anak fixed him with genetic manipulation of interbreeding.
- Adam or Cro-Magnon came along 40 thousand years ago . He and his direct descendents were called “the Chosen Ones”.
- Adam’s kids got into genetic engineering and building machines including aircraft.
- Soon a massive war included the Planet Venus. The result was the destruction of Venus, and the end of the Pleistocene period, as the earth axis shifted and Island nations were flooded.
- Thoth and a group of Anak took over Egypt about this time
- Noah perched the end of the world with flood, but most did not listen.
- His son, Bith, along with his granddaughter Cessair fled to an Irish mountain to get away from the floodwaters.
- After the flood, many Anak survived in flying ships and other boats and Noh’s “Chosen Ones” family also survived.
- One of this his son’s had relations with the ANAK and had ANAKIM offspring. One is known as Nimrod.
- A city in Lebanon was erected and a huge world war ensued.
- Many perished and many went to live underground. The Scythians [from Japheth] moved around in wagons to stay alive.

It would be the Scythians that would be the base of the Irish heritage, but not without the additional bloodlines provided by 3 Scotas from Egypt.
